MRS. MARY E. SCHENLEY DIED AT LONDON HOME: ANDREW CARNEGIE WIRES TRIBUTE TO MEMORY: PITTSBURGH TO HONOR QUEENLY BENEFACTRESS

Several Months' Illness Preceded the Unexpected Demise of the Donor of Schenley Park and Other Gifts to This City.

SESSION OF COUNCILS IS CALLED

NEW YORK, Nov. 5, 1903.
W. B. Hays, Mayor of Pittsburgh:
Pittsburgh's queenly benefactress passed away suddenly yesterday in London. If ever there was a true and loyal Pittsburgher to the end, Mrs. Schenley was one. (Signed)
ANDREW CARNEGIE.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5, 1903.
Mr. Schenley, 14 Princess Gate, Hyde Park, West, London, Eng.:
It is with sorrow we have learned of Mrs. Schenley's death. She was a queen among women, tender and true. Her benefactions to Pittsburgh have endeared her to all our citizens, and will make her memory as lasting as the city itself. WILLIAM B. HAYS,
Mayor.

The news of the death of Mrs. Mary E. Schenley was a shock to most of the residents of this vicinity, as her gifts to the city, especially beautiful Schenley park, had endeared her to many. She had been indisposed for several months, but no news had been received here lately of the nearness of her demise.

Mrs. Schenley was one of the richest women in the world, her property holdings in Pittsburgh and Allegheny being valued at from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000. She was born near Louisville in 1826. Her early life was spent in Pittsburgh, she being the daughter of William Croghan, Jr., a prominent manufacturer here, but for the last 35 or 38 years Mrs. Schenley had remained abroad, mostly in England.

Mayor Hays was at his home ill when he received by telephone the sad news of Mrs. Schenley's death. He had no part in sending the reply. This was done at the mayor's direction by Assistant City Controller E. S. Morrow and Director E. M. Bigelow of the public works department. The latter had much to do with the securing of the many grants of land for Pittsburgh from Mrs. Schenley.

Himself upon a sick bed, Mayor Hays yesterday sent out a call for a joint session of Pittsburgh councils for this afternoon at 3 o'clock to adopt resolutions on the death of Mrs. Schenley. The mayor, who is confined to his home with a sore throat, was notified by telephone of the sudden death of Mrs. Schenley and he expressed his sorrow at hearing the sad news.

Through the mayor's secretary, Walter Black, City Clerk E. W. Hassler was notified and the latter communicated with the presidents of both councils and the notices were sent out last evening. Within an hour after the news of Mrs. Schenley's death reached city hall the mayor signed the call for the special meeting. President Crawford of common council left at 4:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon to visit his mother in Brownsville, who is very ill, but will be back this morning in time to be present at the joint meeting.

Each branch will meet separately and go into joint session later, where a memorial resolution will be presented and adopted. It will be the first time city councils ever held a memorial session because of the death of a woman. Heretofore they have been held for municipal officers, or men of state or national prominence.

A profound sensation was created near the close of the exercises at the Founder's day celebration at the Carnegie institute when President W. N. Frew came to the front of the platform and said:

"Since coming on the platform I have received word, which comes from Mr. Carnegie to the mayor of Pittsburgh, that Mrs. Schenley died in London yesterday.

"Her most imperishable monument will be the beautiful pleasure ground which she has given to the people of Pittsburgh and which lies close to the institute."

The announcement was so entirely unexpected that for a second all in the audience were silent. Then a murmur of sorrow could be heard, as it sprung from all parts of the auditorium simultaneously. No one exclaimed above an undertone, but there was evident a feeling of regret that marked the gratitude for Mrs. Schenley's benefactions awakened by the sudden intelligence that she was no more.

MRS. SCHENLEY CAME OF AN ANCIENT FAMILY

Eloped from School With Military Officer—History of Her Connections.

Mrs. Mary E. Schenley was born at Locust Grove, near Louisville, Ky., April 27, 1826. Her parents were William Croghan, Jr., and Mary O'Hara, the latter a daughter of Gen. James O'Hara, a pioneer resident of Pittsburgh, and prominent in the revolutionary period. Mrs. Schenley's parents moved to Pittsburgh in the early 30s. After the death of her mother, Mary Croghan, in the year 1841, she was sent to a seminary at Staten Island. While attending school she became acquainted with Captain Edward H. Schenley, an officer in the British army. The captain was 45 years of age and twice a widower. Their marriage was an elopement due to the objection raised by Mr. Croghan to his daughter's union with an English army officer. They went to England, where they made their home and did not return to America for about 10 years. Mr. and Mrs. Schenley then went to the old homestead in this city and secured the forgiveness of her father so far as he would give it.

Mrs. Schenley was the mother of six daughters and one son. The eldest daughter was a noted beauty. She married the Hon. Ralph Harbord, and has been a widow for some years. The second daughter is Mrs. Crafton, and the third is Mrs. Ridley. The fourth daughter became the wife of Col. Fred Gore, and the fifth is Mrs. Randolph, wife of Capt. Randolph. The son is Captain Edward W. H. Schenley of the English army.

Mrs. Schenley for 40 years occupied the handsome house in Prince's Gate, Hyde Park. She had been a widow for many years, and was a handsome woman. Her late residence is a tall, substantial structure, facing Hyde Park at its most fashionable side. Mrs. Schenley always left London at the approach of winter, going to her beautiful villa, Mont Fleury, at Cannes, in the south of France. Here she was often visited by Andrew Carnegie and other Americans.

Came of an Ancient Family.

The O'Hara family, of which Mrs. Mary E. Schenley was a descendant, has an ancient pedigree. They were a proud and ancient family of Milesian stock from the west of Ireland. The first mention of them is in 1348. In 1690 there is mention of one Bishop Muncherd Mac Mael Moi,

SCHENLEY PARK BUT ONE OF MANY BENEFACTIONS

Generous Woman Gave Freely to Worthy Charities in This Vicinity.

That Mrs. Schenley's heart if not her presence was always in Pittsburgh is plainly shown by her numerous benefactions to this city and to institutions in Allegheny county. Of all her numerous gifts, Schenley park alone bears her name, and that magnificent stretch of country will keep her name and memory green in the hearts of every loyal Pittsburgher.

Mrs. Schenley gave 300 acres to the city for a park in 1889. The deed was delivered to the city on October 30, 1899, after negotiations had been going on for it about a year. It was known as Mt. Airy. In March, 1891, the city purchased an additional 100 acres adjoining for $125,000, and in the following June bought 19 acres also from Mrs. Schenley on the Forbes street side of the plot for $75,000. It is estimated all the property was worth $10,000 an acre.

In 1846 Mrs. Schenley donated the property in the Twelfth ward of this city to the West Penn hospital. This is now of great value. In 1890 she gave five acres to the Western Pennsylvania institute for the blind, which is now worth at least $125,000. In 1894 she gave a large lot in Old avenue to the Newsboys' home. In 1895 she gave the oldest relic in Pittsburgh, the old block house at the Point and the adjoining property worth some $50,000, to the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In 1895 when the citizens of Allegheny had almost despaired of securing sufficient money to make possible the purchase of their present beautiful park, Mrs. Schenley gave large donations and subscriptions which gave it such a forward movement that the present Riverview park of that city was secured. Mrs. Schenley had also been very liberal to churches and institutions of learning.

Director E. M. Bigelow of the public works department conducted nearly all the city's dealings with Mrs. Schenley and secured from her all the property which was once hers, but which is now a part of the city's holdings. The director told yesterday how the city had acquired the original 300 acres now known as Schenley park.

Directly after the city charter of 1887 was put into effect, he conceived the idea of securing a park in the East End district, and the Mt. Airy tract seemed the

DROPPED DEAD IN THE STREET

Balthasar Weis Expired While Going for Priest for His Dying Wife.

A FAMOUS MUSICIAN

Organized and Conducted the Great Western Band, and Headed Musical Union.

HEART TROUBLE WAS CAUSE

Balthasar Weis, one of the best-known musicians of Western Pennsylvania, dropped dead last night at 8 o'clock at Frankstown avenue and Station street while running for a priest to bring to the bedside of his dying wife. Mr. Weis and family live in the Weis hotel, at No. 6428 Penn avenue. Mrs. Weis has been ill since Sunday and last evening her condition became critical and the services of the family priest were desired.

Mr. Weis had started out for the parish house of SS. Peter and Paul, German Catholic church, Larimer avenue, near Station street, and had got as far as Frankstown avenue and Station street when he felt a choking sensation. Edward Horen, a hotelkeeper of No. 6371 Penn avenue, found him leaning against a telegraph pole almost exhausted. Mr. Horen asked Mr. Weis what was the matter and he replied that he was out of breath, from running.

Mr. Weis attempted to continue his journey and Mr. Horen asked him where he was going.

"For a priest for my dying wife," answered Mr. Weis.

Mr. Horen said he would go, but Mr. Weis insisted upon going himself, saying that he was all right. Mr. Horen turned to go into a neighboring barber shop and Mr. Weis fell to the street. He was carried to the store of Edward White, across the street, and a physician was summoned. Dr. W. J. D. McCaffery arrived a little later and said that Mr. Weis had died of valvular affection of the heart. The body was removed to the family residence.

The situation in the home of the stricken family was most pathetic. Mr. Weis lay dead in the parlor and in a chamber upstairs Mrs. Weis was lying in a critical condition. The news of her husband's death was carefully kept from her. A member of the family said at midnight that she would probably not live till morning.

Mr. Weis was 68 years old and his wife is aged 67. He came to this country when 18 years old from Bavaria. For the last 40 years Mr. Weis had been a leader in musical circles of Pittsburgh. He was organizer and conductor, up to the time of his death, of the Great Western band, for many years one of the most celebrated musical organizations in Western Pennsylvania. He also organized and was head of the local musical union.

Mr. Weis was a veteran of the civil war and rose to the rank of captain. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth, and four children. They are: Charles B., John and Albert Weis, and Mrs. Christopher Blum. A brother, Andrew Weis, and a sister, Mrs. Barbara Miller, also survive. The remaining members of the family are all residents of Pittsburgh.

SERIOUS CHARGES MADE AGAINST WOULD-BE SUICIDE

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5.—Elroy S. Platt, the St. Louis contractor who attempted suicide in Pittsburgh yesterday, is charged with being a defaulter to the extent of over $20,000 by the stockholders of the George Platt Contracting Company in a petition filed in the circuit court today asking that a receiver be appointed for the company. George Platt, president of the company, and father of the man in Pittsburgh, assumed the liabilities for his son's alleged shortage. It is averred in the petition. The father is dangerously ill at his home here.

WENTZ HELD FOR RANSOM

Philadelphia Millionaire Is a Captive in Mountains of Virginia.

A FORTUNE IS ASKED

Captors Demand $100,000, from the Family of Their Prisoner.

MYSTERY AT LAST SOLVED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BRISTOL, VA., Nov. 5.—At last the mystery concerning the disappearance of Edward L. Wentz, the Philadelphia millionaire, has been cleared and it was announced tonight that he is now in the hands of abductors in the mountains of southwest Virginia, and that a ransom of $100,000 is demanded for his release.

This statement was given out by Congressman Slemp, who has been exerting every effort in conjunction with members of the Wentz family, to learn the fate of the missing man.

It is now nearly a month since Wentz left here on horseback, to visit some of his interests in the mountain districts. At first it was feared that he had been murdered, meeting the same fate as O. P. Dexter in the Adirondacks. Wentz having engendered considerable animosity among the natives for his insistence upon the strict enforcement of the law. Ever since his disappearance there has been an untiring search for his body and it was not until the past few days that the theory of abduction was thought possible.

Congressman Slemp, however, is now in possession of sufficient proof to show that a band of desperadoes have Wentz in their possession and that they threaten him with death if the ransom is not immediately forthcoming.

It is not known what action will be taken by the family, but it is reported here tonight that negotiations will be at once started with the desperadoes.

NATIVES BURN VILLAGE AND MASSACRE GERMANS

Hottentots of Southwest Africa Capture Fort—English Taken Prisoners.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Nov. 6.—According to the Capetown correspondent of the Daily Mail, the Bondelswart tribesmen, who are engaged in a native rebellion in Damaraland, a country of Southwest Africa, forming a part of the German possessions there, hearing that reinforcements were being sent against them, redoubled their efforts and succeeded in capturing Warmbad fort.

They burned the fort and the village, massacred all the Germans and took the English families prisoners.

A relieving force from the north meanwhile engaged a large body of the natives and heavy fighting ensued, the result of which is not known. The rising, the correspondent adds, is supposed to be due to the execution of a Bondelswart chief by German officers.

The highest records of the year are usually made at the plant in October.

RECOGNITION LIKELY TODAY

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.

President Roosevelt will make a statement tomorrow regarding the provisional government of the republic of Panama, of the establishment of which this government was officially informed today. Latest advices from Colon being to the effect that the Junta has succeeded in gaining control of the situation, it is apparently expected that this announcement will recognize the newly established government, but it is impossible to secure official information on this point.

Colon, Colombia, Nov. 5.—After a conference this afternoon Col. Torres, commander of the Colombian troops here, seeing that the situation was hopeless, agreed to embark his soldiers on the royal mail steamer Orinoco, sailing for Cartagena at 6:30 p. m. A special train from Panama will bring Gen. Tovar, who will also sail on the Orinoco.

The people of Colon are now jubilant. The flag of the new republic flies from the railway stations at Gatun and Bohio Soldado, near Colon. Troops from Panama will doubtless take charge of the city tomorrow.

Part of the troops have already embarked on the Orinoco and the ammunition has been taken aboard. The municipal council of Colon has just notified the provisional government at Panama of its adherence to the new republic.

Colombian Troops Sail Away.

COLON, COLOMBIA, Nov. 5.—7:30 p. m.—The royal mail steamer Orinoco with 20 officers, 435 men and 30 women has sailed. The United States auxiliary cruiser Dixie has just arrived.

PANAMA, COLOMBIA, No. 4.—2 p. m.—Gen. Tovar and his staff have at last been convinced of the uselessness of their resistance to the provisional government and have accepted the terms offered by the Junta. They will embark this afternoon for Colon on an express train and will leave immediately on the royal mail steamer Orinoco for Cartagena. The arrangement to this end was made through the efforts of Commander Hubbard of the United States gunboat Nashville and Superintendent Shaler and Assistant Superintendent Prescott of the Panama railroad, who guarantee that both parties will fulfill the agreement.

There is great rejoicing all over the city because the stability of the republic now seems assured. The fact that troops were already moving toward the line probably decided Gen. Tovar and his staff to accept the terms of the junta.

General H. O. Jeffries, a graduate of West Point, has been appointed commander of the Pacific flotilla by the provisional government. Carlos Constantino Arosemena has been made assistant secretary of foreign relations.

As soon as the Colombian troops leave Colon, troops of the new republic will be sent there.

An Army Is Organized.

The provisional government has already organized the military division of Panama, commanded by General Domingo Diaz. All the soldiers forming the division fought either with the government at the liberal army during the last revolution. They are therefore already trained and accustomed to military discipline.

The revolutionary junta has published a manifesto addressed to the citizens of the republic of Panama saying that the inhabitants of the isthmus had done what was inevitable in view of the situation which was becoming graver daily. It was pointed out that notwithstanding the grievances inflicted on the isthmus by their Colombian brothers the former had suffered with resignation for the sake of harmony and the union and in view of the fact that reparation was possible so long as hopes could be entertained of an improvement in the situation and of the isthmus ultimately making effective progress under Colombian rule. Under the late system of Colombian government the inhabitants of the isthmus had been governed with the narrow-mindedness which in days gone by had been applied to the American colonies by the powers of Europe.

Complaint of Panama.

The manifesto then refers to the fact that the isthmus of Panama netted Colombia large sums in customs dues, adding that while the junta did not wish to this exposition of facts, which would be handed down to posterity, to be regarded as being moved by a mercenary spirit, nevertheless it was but just to point out that in spite of the large sums of money collected from the isthmus fiscal purposes the latter had not received the benefit of even a bridge over any of its rivers, the construction of a single road between any of the towns of the isthmus, the erection of any public buildings, the establishment of a single college, nor of any other step tending to advance the industries of intellectual development of Panama, as not even the most infinitesimal part of large sums collected had been applied toward benefiting Panama in any shape or form.

The failure of the Hay-Herran canal treaty to meet with approval of the congress at Bogota is then touched upon. It is pointed out that only a few public men were opposed to the treaty and that their opposition was due to the fact that it was alleged that Panama would be the only part of the country which would re-

CELEBRATION BIG SUCCESS

Eighth Founder's Day at Carnegie Institute Passes Into History.

Massachusetts Artist Takes First Prize, With Burroughs and Lathrop Next.

TWO GREAT ADDRESSES MADE

From the entrance of the directors and other officers and the guests of the day upon the stage in Carnegie hall, shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to the departure of the several thousand men and women that made up the audience, the eighth celebration of Founder's day at the Carnegie institute was an entire success.

Two brilliant addresses were made, one by a foremost educator and one by a jurist, whose advanced ideas on corporate policies have brought him the attention of the country. A tribute was paid to the fine arts department by an artist most competent to speak. A report of a thoroughly successful year, marking advances in all lines of the institute's work and future plans was read. The interest of the representative audience that filled the big auditorium showed their close sympathy with the aims and workings of the gift Andrew Carnegie made to the people of Pittsburgh.

Two Brilliant Addresses.

The address of Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university, absorbed the entire attention of the hearers. Forceful in his argument for the recognition of "The Statesmanship of Letters," he added to the regard he had already won in this city.

Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago, judge of the United States circuit court of appeals, stepped from the bench to present to the people of Pittsburgh his convictions of the necessity of a more thorough public knowledge of the workings of corporations. Like President Wilson, he was at his best, and the speeches of the two men here yesterday will remain among their most memorable public addresses.

Childe Hassam, the New York artist, well known here for his interest in the fine arts department of the institute, gave an outsider's view of the position the institute occupies in American art progress.

Organist Edwin H. Lemare was first and last on yesterday's program. His opening number was Meyerbeer's coronation march and the exercises closed with Handel's "Largo." Col. S. H. Church, secretary of the board of trustees, had the pleasure of presenting his annual report showing growth in all departments of the institute and a most promising future. He read also a letter from Mr. Carnegie showing the donor's pleasure at the progress being made.

One Sad Announcement.

But one shadow fell upon the gathering. Towards the close President W. N. Frew of the board announced the receipt of intelligence of the death of Mrs. Schenley, the donor of the park that bears her name, at the entrance to which the institute stands.

Immediately following the opening organ solo, the blessing of the Almighty on the work and purposes of the institute was invoked by the Rev. Dr. Samuel D. McConnell, rector of All Souls' Protestant Episcopal church, New York. At the end of the final organ solo the audience was invited to accompany the trustees to the inspection of the institute, especially the annual exhibition of paintings, which was thrown open to the public at the conclusion of the afternoon's ex-

PROBE MADE NIXON WINCE

Protested Against Questions Asked at Shipbuilding Hearing.

NEW REVELATIONS

Bethlehem Steel Dividends and Expenditures Thoroughly Sifted.

C. M. SCHWAB'S TURN NEXT

[SPECIAL ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Nov. 5.—The features of today's session of the hearing in the United States shipbuilding case were the bitter attack made by Lewis Nixon upon William D. Guthrie, counsel for the defendants and representative of the interests of Charles M. Schwab, for his methods of cross-examination; leading questions by Mr. Untermyer, counsel for the complainants, as to the absence of competition between the Bethlehem Steel Company and the Carnegie plant of the United States Steel Corporation in government contracts for armor plate, and the active charge of front of Mr. Guthrie, who heretofore had aimed to bring out the fact that the value of the constituent plants of the United States Shipbuilding Company was not overestimated.

Today Mr. Guthrie adopted a line of questioning designed to show that the estimates of the value was made by the promoter, the vendors and other interested or incompetent appraisers and were practically without weight. Mr. Nixon was on the stand all day. His cross-examination was finished and the redirect examination partly completed.

Shrinkage of Values.

Guthrie took up figures from the financial reports of the Bethlehem company to show its inability to pay dividends. Mr. Untermyer, from the same reports, attempted to show that expenditures for betterments and new material were excessive and that the company might well have declared a dividend had it been so desired.

Attorney Guthrie questioned Mr. Nixon concerning the formation and value of the Crescent Shipyard Company, the amount of cash on hand at the time of its merger with the United States Shipbuilding Company.

Mr. Guthrie asked where the witness procured a subsidiary of $500,000 in the current assets of the United States Shipbuilding Company.

"I don't remember that there was such a subsidiary in the current assets," replied Mr. Nixon. "There was a subsidiary of $1,000,000, but I do not remember how it was derived."

Mr. Guthrie then went into the matter of the witness' employment of notes for Mr. Dresser to raise funds until the proceeds of the French underwriting should be received. Mr. Nixon said $5,500,000 of securities there and upward of $6,000,000 of common stock were given as a security on the notes. These issues, he said, were all torn up shortly after Mr. Dresser's return from Europe.

Mr. Nixon admitted writing a letter on August 27 to Mr. Livingstone in which he stated the combined plants were worth $30,000,000, and that the estimate was based by the engineer experts.

"Who appraised the Bath company?" asked Mr. Guthrie.

"The owners."

"So the owners were the chief experts who appraised their own property?" continued Mr. Guthrie.

"Not always."

"Who appraised the Elyde Iron Works company for the Samuel L. Moore company?"

"Naval Constructor Bowles and the mayor of Elizabeth."

"Who appraised the Union iron works at $10,000,000?"

Mr. Nixon an expert appraisal of the Union company.

"Who appraised the Canada company?"

Mr. Nixon objected. Attorney Guthrie has the right of cross-examining to test the qualifications had been so framed as to place him in a false position and such that he had been given no opportunity to explain. The referee declared

ASSASSINS PAID IN MOSLEM MONEY

Wholesale Murders of Armenians Instigated by the Sultan of Turkey.

MYSTERY IS NOW CLEARED UP

To Prevent Revolt in Armenia the Sublime Porte Has Planned to Kill Off the Leaders Wherever They May Be. Evidence Convincing.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Armenian colony in this city, which is a large and wealthy one, is stirred to its center by the news of the murders of leading Armenians in London and the shooting down of other Armenians in Canada. Leading members of the colony are taking extraordinary precautions against assassination.

This city is the headquarters of the revolutionary junta in this country and, from the wealth and position of its members, is really the backbone of the movement which has as its object the throwing off of the Turkish yoke and the freeing of Armenia from the danger of rapine, massacre and loot at the hands of Turkish officials and soldiery with which they are so familiar.

They believe that the assassin's knife and pistol will soon be busy here as it has been in London and in Canada. With the London murders the public is familiar. The facts of the assassinations in Canada are contained in a dispatch from Montreal which was received here today, which says:

"An assassination and two attempted murders of Armenians in this vicinity are being investigated by provincial detectives, who suspect they are connected with the murders in London. The victims are all very well known. One, Selma Kouri, was murdered some months ago in his store in Cowerville by Vahan Baarhan, a countryman. The murderer refuses to give any reason for the deed. He will be hanged in December.

Work of Turkish Government.

"A few days ago the nephew of the murdered man was shot in Labelle by Kissam Badoni, while a third Armenian was murderously assaulted in St. Adele. Both of the latter victims are in a critical condition."

A well-known member of the Armenian colony, who declined to permit the use of his name for obvious reasons, said to your correspondent today:

"These murders are unquestionably the work of the Turkish government. The motive behind them is manifest. The sultan realizes that a revolutionary movement among Armenians will mean his downfall. With European Turkey in open revolt, with Syria on the verge of an uprising and with the situation in Arabia calling for the presence of large bodies of troops, a successful Armenian uprising would make his plight desperate indeed. He goes to work in a characteristic way to minimize the chances of such an uprising by sending out his assassins to murder the men whom he thinks could and would bring about another revolt against the tyrannical rule. There is not a shadow of a doubt in the mind of any well-informed Armenian that the slayer of Saghour and the other Armenian leaders in London was a Turkish emissary.

Leading Armenians in Danger.

"It is equally as certain in our minds that every leading Armenian, no matter where he is, who has taken an active and leading part in the revolutionary movement to an extent that he may be regarded as dangerous, is marked for slaughter.

"It would not be surprising if New York should wake up any morning to find that the London murder had been repeated here. We are doing all in our power to guard against it, but as evidenced by the act of the London assassin in blowing out his own brains when cornered, the fanatical Turk sent out on his mission of slaughter is ready to take any desperate chance to accomplish his fell purpose. When it is considered that in New York are some of the strongest supporters of the Armenian revolutionary cause, both in money and in brains, it would be too much to hope that we are to escape."

INJURED CHILD CAUSES SUICIDE AND INSANITY

Distracted Mother Kills Herself and Aged Man Loses His Mind.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SCRANTON, PA., Nov. 5.—An infant child of Mrs. James Tomine, an Italian woman of Dunmore, fell downstairs this evening and was rendered unconscious. The young mother became distracted at the thought that her first born had come to its death through her carelessness and killed herself by sending a bullet through her brain. Her aged father went out to look for the police to tell them of the affair.

Some one had telephoned to the station house that a murder had been committed at the Tomine house, and when the father put in an appearance he was locked up. He could not make himself understood and remained in jail until midnight. When Chief Henley came to release him he was a raving maniac.

The New Republic of Panama

Relation of the Isthmian republic to the former United States of Colombia, of which it was one of the nine departments into which Colombia was divided. Panama has an area of 31,571 square miles, about as large as Indian Territory, 31,409 square mile, and a population of 504,772, about that of the state of Washington, 518,103.

ceive direct benefits fro mthe building of an interoceanic canal. The manifesto then continues:

They Declare Independence.

The people of the Isthmus, in view of this notorious situation, have decided to recover their sovereignty in order to work out their own destiny and to insure the future of Panama in a manner in keeping with the evident destiny of the country, its vast territory and its immense riches. The initiators of the movement aspire to assist in this work and also to take part in the foundation of a republic where the law shall be the unfailing guide of those who govern and those who are governed, where effective peace will be established and in which all interests will join in the work of civilization and progress, which must result in perpetual stability.

At the beginning of the life of this independent nation we fully appreciate the responsibilities which the present state of affairt means, but we have confidence in the good sense and patriotism of the Isthmians, and we believe that they possess sufficient energy to open the way, by their labors, to a happy future without worry or danger.

The separation of the Isthmus from Colombia was accomplished without any feeling of hatred or revengeful spirit, but as a son withdraws from the paternal roof, the Isthmian people, taking their chosen path, have separated themselves from Colombia. They did so with grief, but they complied with their supreme, inevitable duty, that of looking to their own future, of attending to their own preservation and of working out, by their efforts, their welfare.

We, therefore, now begin to form one of the free nations of the world. We consider Colombia as being a sister nation, with which we shall be in sympathy wherever circumstances may require it, and for whose prosperity we have the most fervent and sincere wishes.

Interior Provinces in Line.

Telegraphic advices received from the interior provinces say there was great rejoicing there when the news of the declaration of the independence of Panama became known. The government troops stationed at Penonomo, 65 miles southwest of Panama, have joined in the revolutionary movement and almost every moment telegrams are received from the most important men in the interior announcing their adhesion to the new republic.

The revolution has been practically bloodless, as only two Chinamen were killed during the bombardment of the city by the government gunboat Bogota. The fire of the warship unroofed one house, a shell hit the tower of the cathedral, and another fell on the house of Federico Boyd, a member of the revolutionary junta.

The foreign consuls promptly sent a communication to the commander of the Bogota protesting against his action in opening fire on the city without giving proper notification of his intention to do so.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Around the revolution on the Isthmus and the proclamation of the independence of the "republic of Panama" the United States has framed a radical policy. Precedent is cast to the winds. American naval commanders on the isthmus, whose force will be increased if necessary, will prevent conflict between the government and revolutionist troops. Colombia must settle her quarrel with her subjects peaceably if at all.

Our Policy Outlined.

As the only way, however, to stop yearly insurrectionary strife on the isthmus and to relieve the United States of the burden of policing the territory not its own, the new policy contemplates either the recognition of the sovereignty of the new state or the construction of the Panama canal by force of arms if necessary.

Your correspondent was today given an authoritative statement of the United States policy on the isthmus. It was thus set forth:

"The United States is bound by treaty to preserve free transit across the isthmus of Panama. Heretofore it has always exercised that obligation to the advantage of Colombia. The question now arises whether it shall continue to favor Colombia, which has behaved in practical bad faith in the matter of the canal treaty, or shall shape its policy according to conditions now prevalent.

"Nearly every year the United States is required to send troops to the isthmus to preserve the transit. The administration is tired of policing the railroad for Colombia. There is no indication that left to itself, the revolutionists will not be flying at each others' throats annually in the future. It is such another case as Cuba, save that Cuba was an over-sea colony of Spain, while Panama is a province of Colombia."

Colonbian in Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 5.—General C. D. Jeffers of the Colombian army, was in the city today on a business mission and furnished some interesting information regarding the causes of the revolt in Panama. Gen. Jeffers said:

"The head and brains of the present outburst is an American mining engineer, J. M. Mitchell, who has given the insurrectionists every help financially and otherwise asked by men from this country. When hostilities ceased last spring Mitchell was imprisoned and held until six weeks ago, when through outside aid he escaped and since then has been very active in preparing plans against the government of Colombia. The people of Panama are eager for the building of the canal by the United States and when it was delayed, Mitchell had little difficulty in getting prominent men of Panama to form an independent government."

Although opposed to Mitchell's policy, Gen. Jeffers spoke highly of Mitchell personally and predicted that if the new government lasted he would be given a prominent position, as he believed his ambition was to be president of Panama. Gen. Jeffers said his business would be completed the coming week and he would then leave for Panama.

PROBE MADE NIXON WINCE

that the questions asked by Mr. Guthrie were entirely proper.

Sold at a Sacrifice.

Mr. Nixon, when asked about the listing of the Shipbuilding securities upon the New York stock exchange, said that this had been entirely in the hands of Maxham. He declared that he had sold no bonds of the Shipbuilding company until July 1 of the present year, when he had disposed of a few "at a frightful sacrifice," because he needed money. He still had possession of all the Shipbuilding stock issued to him.

Taking up his connection with the Bethlehem Steel Company, Mr. Nixon testified to his election as president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation of the United States Shipbuilding Company, his attendance at directors' meetings and his acquaintance with officials of the Bethlehem Steel Company, by whom, he said, he considered practical steel men.

This was preliminary to questions about the expenditures for improvements for the Bethlehem plant. Such an item in Engineer Smith's report published this week, to have been made in excessive amounts to avoid declaring a dividend and thereby to cripple the Shipbuilding company, was explained to protect stock, and the trip made by Bethlehem officials, accompanied by Mr. Gary and other United States Steel Corporation officials to determine the opportunity for dividends.

Mr. Nixon, who made the trip, had concurred in the estimate of $2,800,000 for improvements, and had voted as a director to approve it. Knowing, he said, that it was subject to the approval of the executive board of the Shipbuilding company and believing that the Bethlehem plant as a "great plant to do great things," he believed it to be unfair to the plant to allow it to be maintained in the highest possible state of efficiency, even at this cost, provided it did not destroy the earnings of the company.

The Bethlehem Dividend.

The report of the Bethlehem Steel Company for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1903, was introduced to show the amount voted for betterments, but Mr. Untermyer objected to the introduction of "papers drawn up after the application for a receivership by interested parties for the future of manufacturing evidence for use in this suit."

Witness identified his letter to President McIlvaine of the Bethlehem company, written after the application for a receiver for the shipbuilding company, demanding, as president of the latter company, that the Bethlehem company pay a dividend and testified that he had, at meetings of the Bethlehem directors on June 20, and July 28, 1903, acquiesced in resolutions declaring that, on account of the financial condition of the company inexpedient at that time, to declare a dividend.

He had abandoned his stand for a dividend for which the Shipbuilding company might have been saved from bankruptcy because he had been assured that the Bethlehem company was without funds for such a dividend and because he did not know how money for a dividend could be obtained unless by borrowing.

Mr. Guthrie then turned the witness over to Mr. Untermyer for re-direct examination.

"Do you know anything about the methods adopted by a corporation to avoid paying a dividend?" was Mr. Untermyer's first question.

"I'm beginning to know," Mr. Nixon answered amid a general laugh. "I've had considerable experience with corporations during the past year."

Taking up the trip of inspection made by Bethlehem officials to determine the amount of betterments necessary, Mr. Untermyer emphasized the point that the Bethlehem officials had been accompanied by Messrs. Schwab, Corey, Gayley, Dickson and Pam, representatives of the United States Steel Corporation, the only plant ostensibly a competitor of the Bethlehem Steel Company in the manufacture of armor plate for government ships, on a tour of inspection of plants which was to suggest means of increasing the efficiency of the Bethlehem plant.

"Were the two companies competing for government work?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"They both put in bids for work that was advertised."

"And these representatives of the only competing plant in the country for the manufacture of armor plate went along with the Bethlehem officials on a trip to study the Bethlehem plant and suggest means for improving its efficiency? That it might better compete with their own company?"

Mr. Nixon's reply was lost in the general laughter and the hearing was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

The re-direct examination of Mr. Nixon will be resumed tomorrow afternoon and Charles M. Schwab may be placed on the stand later in the day.

SOLD STOCK CHEAPLY.

Le Roy Dresser Claims He Gave $1,000,000 in Shipbuilding Shares for $100,000 Cash.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The United States Shipbuilding Company's stock figured briefly in the hearing of Dresser & Company's creditors today, at which Daniel Leroy Dresser was again a witness. As to the $1,000,000 worth of Shipbuilding stock, to the receipt of which he had testified in a former examination, he said it had been sold outright for $100,000.

Asked if he had received any other Shipbuilding stock, the witness said $300,000 or $300,000 worth had been delivered to him under an agreement with William S. Andrews acting for John W. Young. Permission was given for the use of this stock either as collateral or by sale for the benefit of Dresser & Company. It simply was an accommodation on the part of Mr. Young, said Mr. Dresser.

MRS. MARY E. SCHENLEY DIED AT HER LONDON HOME UNEXPECTEDLY

and in 1409, from the same diocese, appears Bishop Bryan O'Hara. In 1485 Archbishop O'Hara is mentioned.

In 1706 there is a record showing that General Sir Charles O'Hara, created a baron in the reign of Queen Anne, held title to the castle and estate of Tyrrawley, County Mayo, Ireland. His son, General Sir James O'Hara, whose first title was conferred for military services rendered under Queen Anne, was the owner of the demesnes of Kilmaine.

Gen. James O'Hara of Pittsburgh, was descended from this branch. He emigrated from the old country in 1772, landing in Philadelphia. When the revolution broke out he raised and equipped a company of volunteers at his own expense. He became the first quartermaster general of the United States army. He was one of the prominent men, if not, indeed, the most prominent man of his day. At his spacious mansion may famous men, such as Louis Philippe and General Moreau, were entertained. He was a man of great commercial daring as well as military.

In 1796 with Isaac Craig he embarked in the glass business, the pioneer in this great industry in Pittsburgh, and after herculean efforts and the expenditure of $30,000 the first glass bottle in Allegheny county was turned out. It was of green glass. He also entered the boat building business, constructing the General Butler, which was captured by a Spanish schooner in 1807.

In 1789 he cast a presidential elector's vote for Washington. He assisted in building the First Presbyterian church. Having great faith in Pittsburgh realty he bought a vast acreage in the county and elsewhere. At one time, in company with Major Isaac Craig, he operated a sawmill in Allegheny. He died December 21, 1819 in the 61th year of his age, and his wife, Mary O'Hara, died April 8, 1824, aged 73.

O'Haras Who Are Still Living.

The only living descendants of the name of O'Hara are James and his son, Richard W., son and grandson of Richard Butler O'Hara, son of General O'Hara. General O'Hara had four sons, William Carson, Charles, Richard Butler and James, the latter of whom married a daughter of Fressley Neville, who was also a granddaughter of General Daniel Morgan.

General O'Hara had two daughters, Mary and Elizabeth Febiger. The former married William Croghan, son of Major Croghan, United States army, who was a brother-in-law of General George Rogers Clarke. Mrs. Croghan was the mother of Mrs. Mary E. Schenley.

General O'Hara's other daughter, Elizabeth, married Harmar, the son of Major Ebenezer Denny, the first mayor of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Mary O'Hara Darlington of Guyasuta, mother of Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, regent of the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and one of the best-known clubwomen in the state, is the daughter of Richard O'Hara, son of General James O'Hara. Miss Matilda W. Denny of Ridge avenue is a daughter of Harmar Denny and is an aunt of Miss Kate McKnight.

Other descendants of the O'Hara family are Mrs. William Pierce, Mrs. Mary O'Hara Spring, Mrs. Frederic G. Kay and Mrs. Lucy O'Hara Morrison, all known in Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

Harmar married Elizabeth Febiger O'Hara, daughter of General James O'Hara, and thus laid the foundation of the Denny estate of today, which covers hundreds of acres, much of it in the city of Pittsburgh, and which is worth millions of dollars. Harry S. Denny of Ligonier, is the eldest in the male line of the descendants living.

Miss Mathilda W. Denny of Ridge avenue, Allegheny, is a daughter of Harmar Denny. Another daughter became Mrs. Robert McKnight, mother of Miss Kate McKnight of Western avenue, Allegheny.

Robert McKnight was a prominent attorney, member of congress and accomplished gentleman. In his house in Western avenue such notables as Daniel Webster were entertained.

HAD NOT BEEN HERE FOR OVER 45 YEARS

Mrs. Schenley Planned Visits to Pittsburgh, but Something Always Prevented Her.

Mrs. Schenley's last visit to Pittsburgh was in 1857 or 1858. She had promised to visit the city several times since, but always deferred it. Her husband came here alone about 1864 and some years later died at his home in London. Her son, Captain Edward W. H. Schenley, visited this city about six years ago, but none of the others of the family have ever been here.

Mrs. Schenley always had a warm feeling for Pittsburgh, although she preferred to live in London. The Schenley mansion, formerly the Croghan mansion, off Stanton avenue, adjoining the Allegheny cemetery, in which Mr. and Mrs. Schenley lived when they were here for three years when here last, is still in the same condition that it was when they left it. The old piano is in the parlor, the gilt frires remain hanging on the walls, the china is in the closets it occupied in the long ago, and everything else is in such shape that if Mrs. Schenley should have decided to come back it would have taken little trouble to have the house refurnished and make it as it was when she left it.

Mrs. Schenley always intended to come back to Pittsburgh for a visit at least, but something always occurred to make her change her mind. The Hon. W. Jarrom, her local agent, stated yesterday that when he visited her last in London, about 12 years ago, she told him of her intention of coming back. At the same time she related to him an incident showing she was sincere in her desire.

"I had purchased my tickets for the ocean voyage," said Mrs. Schenley to Mr. Herron, "and had my goods packed and everything else ready to go to Pittsburgh, when I got a note from Queen Victoria, who had charge of the arrangements. 'Hold on a minute, George,' George has been holding on ever since," concluded the aged woman with a laugh.

OLD SCHENLEY MANSION IN STANTON AVENUE

House as It Was 50 Years Ago, When it Was the Mecca of Society.

Pittsburgh has had in its time many beautiful old country seats, one of the best known being "Picnic," which Colonel Croghan, Mrs. Schenley's father, built and maintained in princely style. In 1840 it was one of the finest country houses about Pittsburgh, and even now it has a glamour of the old-time splendor as the visitor wanders through its broad open door and peers into the dim reaches of spacious halls and faded drawing rooms, where the dust lightly settles to be undisturbed until the caretaker opens the closed, grimy shutters and admits the joyous daylight, showing the decay of time.

At "Picnic" Mrs. Schenley held her childish court beneath the magnificent trees which adorn the place. It lies just on the outskirts of the residential section in Stanton avenue, but still hidden within its own grove of trees and broad lawns, where the grass is permitted to grow waist high during the long summer days. For nearly half a century the house has been occupied but a faithful caretaker, always in the employ of Mrs. Schenley's family, keeps it as it was in the day when Mrs. Schenley deserted it for her English home.

Picnics still take place beneath the broad shadows of the trees, when during the summer days visitors explore the old house, first having secured a permit from the agents in the city. Across the portico and through the simple colonial doorway they pass into the hall with its fireplace and winding staircase. Into the drawing room and to the spinet, whose tinkling strings throw a silver-toned charm about the invaders, and into the library where the open shelves bespeak of former occupancy they wander. Thence they go to the dining room, the scene of princely dinners for distinguished visitors in the olden days, with its rich carvings, dark with age, and the quaint cupboards, where still some beautiful old pieces of china are to be seen, then up the staircase haunted by memories of merry rippling voices, when its mistress was a winsome lass wooed by the gallant English captain, to the sleeping apartments on the second floor.

Everywhere there are traces of the tenantcy of half a century ago, when the hearty hospitality and ready wit of Colonel Croghan surrounded him with a joyous group of friends and comrades and ere the young daughter had sailed to a foreign home, and the associations cling to the visitor, 50 years later, who would declare in a tender hands of gloom which has gathered on his sleeve as with softened heart he passes from the portals of Picnic to the brightness and brilliancy of the world without.

HISTORIC BLOCK HOUSE A GIFT OF MRS. SCHENLEY

How the Daughters of the American Revolution Came to Possess the Relic.

The block house at the Point is as much a memorial to Mrs. Schenley as the park which bears her name. The block house is the only tangible piece of property left in existence of the litigation carried on by the corporation interests and the Daughters of the American Revolution over its ownership. Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, regent of the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, last night said: "No woman in the United States could do or has done more than Mrs. Schenley in giving so valuable a piece of property and an object of such historic interest to the Daughters of the American Revolution for safekeeping, which means its preservation forever as an object of historic and patriotic interest and veneration."

The block house was deeded to the Daughters of the American Revolution of Allegheny County in 1894. At the time of Pontiac's war, when Col. Bouquet came to Pittsburgh, he erected a fort on the point surrounding Fort Pitt, erected in 1761, was perfectly dry when the river was low, and the Indians could crawl up the ditch and shoot any guard or soldier who might venture within its range. In order to prevent this, Col. Bouquet ordered the erection of the redoubt, or block house, which completely commanded the moat on the Allegheny side of the fort. The little building, the only remnant of the fortifications of that day, is of brick, floored, with two floors and surrounded with a squared oak log with loopholes on each floor. There were two underground passages, one connecting it with the fort and the other leading to the Monongahela river.

The ground from Fort Pitt to the Allegheny river was sold in 1784 to Isaac Craig and Stephen Bayard, and after passing through various hands was purchased by Gen. James O'Hara on September 4, 1905. When Gen. O'Hara died, in 1819, the property passed to his daughter Mary, who in 1821 married William Croghan. Mrs. Croghan died in 1827, and her daughter, Mary Elizabeth, scarcely a year old, became the ward of the famous Capt. E. W. H. Schenley of the English army, and to her the Daughters of the American Revolution of Allegheny County are indebted for the gift of the block house and the surrounding property.

While the property was in the possession of Isaac Craig and Stephen Bayard a large dwelling house was built and connected with the block house. This was occupied from that time until it came into the possession of the Daughters of the American Revolution as a dwelling house. The plot of ground upon which the block house stands, included in the gift of Mrs. Schenley, measures 100 by 90 feet, and a passageway leading to Penn avenue 90 feet long by 20 feet wide.

As soon as the Daughters of the American Revolution received the deed for the property the work of clearing away the tumbledown tenements which covered the ground was commenced. Over the door of the block house was placed a bronze tablet with the inscription "Col. Boquet, 1764," which while the building was used as a dwelling was inserted in the wall of the staircase of city hall.

With even greater tenacity now than in the past will the Daughters of the American Revolution cling to this relic of the ante-revolutionary days in the frontier trading post at the forks of the Ohio which has grown into the great commercial and industrial city of Pittsburgh. At the next meeting of the Pittsburgh chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Allegheny County, the latter being the incorporated name under which the local daughters hold the block house, a memorial will be presented and adopted touching the death of Mrs. Schenley. Such a resolution will also be presented at the state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution which is to be held in Pittsburgh next week.

EXTENSIVE PROPERTY OWNED BY MRS. SCHENLEY

Holdings in Pittsburgh and Allegheny Valued at from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000.

The property of Mrs. Schenley in this city is valued at from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000, according to John W. Herron, the agent. Since 1890 the property has doubled in value, taking all together, although in some cases it has appreciated much more than this amount before it is located. The holdings of the Schenley estate include some of the best business property in this city, while much of the choice residence property away from the business center is also included.

In area the largest amount of property of the Schenley estate is in the Twelfth and Fourteenth wards. The locations of the Schenley holdings are as follows: First, Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Eighteenth and Twenty-third wards in Pittsburgh, and the Second, Third, Fourth and Ninth wards in Allegheny. Some farming lands lying in Ligonier, the old Fort Crawford and Westmoreland counties. The Ligonier quarries, near Ligonier, were her property. Thousands of acres of property were formerly owned by the estate in Illinois, in the vicinity of Harrisburg, but this has all been disposed of, the last 5,000 acres having been sold a few years ago.

The policy of the Schenley estate always has been to lease property, and not to sell it, although some of it has been disposed of. During the past four years Mr. W. Herron, the local agent of the estate, sold about $4,000,000 worth of the property.

Of the downtown property of the Schenley estate, the most valuable is that at the corner of Smithfield and Diamond streets, practically all of the land from Third street to the junction of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers. Most of this property was sold two years ago to H. C. Frick, who turned it over to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for $2,500,000. She also owned the block bounded by New Grant street, Seventh avenue, Cherry alley and Oak alley. On Diamond street she was the owner of the property on the south side of the street extending down from 20 feet below Cherry alley to within 50 feet of Smithfield street. In Allegheny the property on the north side of Ohio street, almost from the Carnegie library to near "Dutchtown," was under lease to the Schenley estate.

Mrs. Schenley's holdings in the city are so extensive that she is said to be the largest individual taxpayer in Pittsburgh. Only the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the firm of Jones & Laughlin pay a larger sum into the city treasury.

RAVENNA TREASURER COMMITTED SUICIDE

City Official Shoots Himself While at Work—Accounts Are All Right.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

RAVENNA, O., Nov. 5.—Frank R. Powers, city treasurer and also treasurer of Ravenna township, committed suicide today. The whole community was shocked to learn of the tragedy. Powers was in his room at home working on his treasury books when the shot was heard. His wife hastened to the room and was horrified to see her husband lying unconscious on the floor.

A careful examination has demonstrated that his accounts were all right. His mind is thought to have been temporarily unbalanced. Powers had been ill for many months. He was engaged in the retail shoe business and gained considerable prominence as an "ad writer." He was an unusually bright man and was very popular. Poor health forced him to give up business some time ago. He leaves a father, widow, a son and two daughters.

SCHENLY PARK BUT ONE OF MANY BENEFACTIONS

only available place. At that time the late Robert B. Carnahan was a member of councils, and took even a livelier interest in the project than Director Bigelow himself. He was also Mrs. Schenley's legal representative then, as his son, Thomas D. Carnahan, is today.

The negotiations for the property were progressing nicely, when Director Bigelow learned that a syndicate of local people were trying to purchase the property. They sent a representative to London to see Mrs. Schenley about it, who was prepared to close the matter then with a handsome cash offer, but all of their plans had been watched and were circumvented. Director Bigelow said he roused Mr. Carnahan out of bed and put him on a train at 3 o'clock in the morning, bought and reserved his berth on a steamer by telegraph, and Mr. Carnahan sailed for London on the same ship the syndicate's representative was on.

Mr. Carnahan got to Mrs. Schenley's home at 8 o'clock on a Sunday morning, and asked for an appointment to see her later. She, however, is reported to have said: "If you can come all the way from Pittsburgh to see me, surely I can get out of bed at 8 o'clock to see you."

Mr. Carnahan explained the nature of his journey and the importance of seeing her at once, even though it was Sunday. She appreciated his position, understood his motive at once, and surprised him by declining to accept any price for the property, but giving it outright for the purposes proposed.

Careful surveys of the original plot showed there were 415 acres in it, instead of 300, and the excess was purchased for $125,000. A portion of 19 acres, at the entrance to the park was worth $100,000, but was bought for $75,000. In speaking yesterday of how the additions to Schenley park were secured from their owner Director Bigelow said:

"The properties adjoining Schenley park were paid for by the city, but at a much lower cost than adjacent property was selling for. The city secured about $4,-000,000 worth of property for $200,000. Mrs. Schenley would never fix any price she stating that if she did, it might appear she was trying to raise the values of adjoining property which belonged to her. She always made me set the figure and always agreed to the price I named.

"I visited her in London to secure the 115 acres which were outside the original grant for Schenley park. The property adjoining had been sold by its owner just prior to that for $10,000 per acre. I told Mrs. Schenley this and then asked to know what the city could purchase it for. She said it was out of the question for her to sell at $10,000 per acre and asked me to name a lower price. The city secured those 115 acres for exactly $100,000 and it cost a little over $400 for my trip across and back.

"The last time I saw Mrs. Schenley was at her London home two years ago. At that time I secured 19 acres of property fronting in Forbes street west of the library for $75,000, a much lower figure than the property adjoining could be bought for. Mrs. Schenley was always exceedingly generous to all her benefactions to Pittsburgh and was, indeed, a queenly woman. Her death is a great loss to Pittsburgh and to Pittsburghers."

Director Bigelow has held an option for some years on 11 acres of Mrs. Schenley's property adjoining the park on the west, and facing Forbes street. He said he meant the city to buy it some day, but now that Mrs. Schenley is dead the option would fail, and the property could not be bought for anything like the option price.

THOMAS S. BIGELOW SAYS HE LEARNED SOME LESSONS

He Is Expected to Negotiate With the Orphans. Republicans Announce Candidacies for Congress.

"We were whipped and have learned some lessons."

This was the remark made yesterday by Thomas S. Bigelow when asked whether he had any comment to make on the result of the election. Whether Mr. Bigelow and Murry A. Verner intended to "unlearn" their former methods, and perhaps learn new lessons under the instruction of the "orphans," was a question much discussed yesterday.

The "orphans" claim that their denunciations of the Citizens-leaders' policy had much to do with defeating the Citizens-Democratic party, and they are expecting overtures from Bigelow and Verner. They will make a statement early next week, and in the meantime, it is supposed, there will be many conferences between Controller John B. Larkin and the members of councils classed as "orphans" with the Citizens leaders. The "orphans" will insist that the pledges made and broken by the Citizens be fulfilled before there can be any negotiations. W. K. Jennings, formerly prominent in the Municipal league, thinks the "orphans" will head a new reform party which will take in thousands of voters who were disgusted with the tactics of the leaders of the Citizens-Democratic organization.

Many city employes are indignant at the apparent intention of the city administration to hold them responsible for the loss of their districts. Knowing that it was the leaders' faithfulness to their party's pledges that caused the loss of the election, they think Bigelow, Verner and Mayor Hays should look within themselves to learn the real cause of the crushing defeat they just suffered.

Individual Republicans were already talking yesterday of making preparations for the fight for councilmen next February, and the ensuing contest for congressmen, state senators and legislators. Dr. A. J. Barchfield announced that he would again be a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the Thirty-second district, and James F. Burke will go into the primaries for the nomination in the Thirty-first district. William H. Graham will try for the Republican nomination in the Twenty-ninth district. Bernard F. Dunn, Thomas S. Bigelow's office secretary, is being discussed by the Citizens as a candidate for council in the Sixth ward, as the incumbent, Dr. J. P. Shaw, is an "orphan."

Thomas S. Bigelow and Murry A. Verner had a long conference yesterday in Verner's office in the Farmers Bank building. Mr. Bigelow, when asked if he contemplated trying to enter negotiations with the Republicans, said that was the first he had heard of it.

Charles A. O'Brien, the Democrat who supported the Republican ticket on the stump, said he thought the victory was the most glorious ever won in Allegheny; it was the people versus "Bigelow, boodle and booze." He though, the Republican chairman, Thomas J. Ford, deserved great credit for the way in which he had done his work.

Mayor Wyman and City Solicitor Porter of Allegheny yesterday went to Warren county on a hunting expedition. Other Allegheny officials were in their offices for the first time for several days.

The War Veterans' association of the North Side is planning a jollification at the old soldiers' headquarters, in North Diamond street, Saturday night. President William T. Bradbury is chairman of the committee on arrangements. All the old soldiers will be present, and the committee will have brass bands and entertainers to make the evening pleasant. If the city authorities can be persuaded to permit it, a large bonfire will burn in North Diamond street in front of the veterans' headquarters.

MAJ. ROBERT E. STEWART RECEIVES AN OVATION

Soldiers' Civic League Resolves to Prevent Dismissal of Members from Public Office.

The Soldiers' Civic league held a meeting in post No. 2 hall, Fourth avenue last night and turned the affair into a jollification over the results of Tuesday's election. Maj. Robert Stewart, district attorney-elect was given an ovation. The three grades of the organization—the veterans of the Rebellion, the men of the Spanish war and the Sons of Veterans—were present and the sub-leagues of Allegheny, Wilkinsburg, Bellevue, Sewickley, Etna-Sharpsburg and the West End were represented.

Speeches were made by Col. C. F. McKenna, Capt. John A. Reed, Capt. H. B. Ourseler, John A. Downey and A. J. Houthett. Maj. Stewart made a brief address in which he thanked the members of the organization for their support. He said there was no doubt that the sentiment aroused by the league had more to do with the winning of Tuesday's battle.

The following resolution, presented by Capt. Ourseler, was passed unanimously:

Whereas, There is a number of comrades, honorably discharged soldiers of the civil war and Spanish war, and sons and daughters of civil war veterans, now holding various public positions in the county of Allegheny, therefore be it

Resolved, That this organization and the subleaguers thereof pledges its utmost influence and assistance to protect and defend all comrades, their sons and daughters, regardless of their party affiliations, from dismissal from their respective positions without just cause as is required by the laws of this commonwealth, and that the Soldiers' Civic league hereby renews its declaration of objects, to secure reform, honesty and purity in all state, county and municipal affairs, and by all honorable and just means to obtain and secure proper recognition and employment of soldiers, sailors and marines, and the sons of all such soldiers, sailors and marines, for public office and employment.

Post No. 2 will have a reception on Monday night to Maj. Stewart, in the same hall. Maj. Stewart is the third member of the post to be elected district attorney in Allegheny county and for this reason the post will celebrate like success. The other members of the post who held the office were the late A. L. Pearson and the late Maj. E. A. Montooth.

WILL WALK TO CALIFORNIA.

Pickering's Little German Band Scheduled for a Novel Trip

To California and back in six months is the trip laid out for Pickering's Little German Band. They left the "Nut Cedar" store yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and went directly to the postoffice where their book was signed by Postmaster George N. Holliday. Then the band started for Carnegie. At each town their book will be signed by the postmaster. They expect to go to San Francisco by way of the southern part of the United States and return by the way of St. Louis and to the World's Fair.

The band includes Fred Atkins, his wife and a companion. They were rigged in their usual outlandish costumes. Atkins will push a wheel barrow bearing a big sign of Pickering's.

MRS. MILLS WILL NOT MOVE.

Declares She Has a Lease Until Spring and Carnegie Institute Must Wait.

The contractors who are clearing the ground for the extension to the Carnegie institute have locked horns with Mrs. E. Mills, who occupies a home at No. 36 Shawkmany street and refuses to get out, claiming that she has a lease on the property until spring. All of the other houses on the site have been either demolished or removed and rebuilt and Douglas have been told that Mrs. Mills and family will be forcibly ejected.

The building known as "The House of the Merciful Savior" is now being torn down and will be rebuilt in another part of the city. Bids for the excavation for the new buildings will be awarded on Monday by Alden & Harlow, architects.

NEW AIRBRAKE COMPANY.

Westinghouse Concern is Chartered With a Capital of $11,000,000.

Under the "iron and steel clause" of its character, a new charter was granted the Westinghouse Airbrake Company yesterday at Harrisburg with a capital stock of $11,000,000. The new company is a merger of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, organized in 1863 and the Electro-Magnetic Company chartered under the act of 1874, the former with a capital of $11,000,000 and the latter with $3,000 capital.

The Electro Magnetic Company although organized by the first named concern could not be taken over as a merger until a new charter was obtained. At the annual meeting of the stockholders held on October 6 the consolidation was voted on and a charter was applied for immediately afterwards. The details of the agreement were told in The Gazette on September 15 when the company issued a statement to its stockholders.

The officers of the new company will be: President, George Westinghouse; first vice president, Robert Pitcairn; second vice president, H. H. Westinghouse; third vice president, E. M. Herr; secretary, John F. Miller, treasurer, John Caldwell; general manager, E. M. Herr; assistant secretary and treasurer, H. H. Emery; auditor, E. A. Craig and assistant auditors, Charles A. Rowan and H. G. Welsh. The directors are: George H. Westinghouse, Robert Pitcairn, H. H. Westinghouse, John Caldwell, E. M. Herr, George C. Smith and Henry W. Oliver.

Merchants Formed Organization.

The merchants of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin last evening held a meeting in Seewald's hall, Braddock, and formed an organization to be known as the Merchants Association of Braddock and Vicinity. About 125 merchants were present. They declare they will take a hand in local legislation. It is said that the real cause of the organization is the action of Braddock council in repealing the sidewalk ordinance, a fortnight ago, which granted the use of three feet of the sidewalks for the display of goods.

Horseshoes Made of Fiber.

The Fiber Horseshoe Company of Pittsburgh has been chartered at Harrisburg. The capital stock is $500,000. The company will manufacture horse shoes of fiber, canvas and wood pulp. This shoe is light and will not wear the iron shoe. The firm will build a factory in or near the city. The general office will be No. 306 Frick building. The officers are Geo. J. Peacock, president; Frank Niemann, vice president; Henry V. Potter, secretary.

EVERYTHING.

Depends on Food.

How often the kind of food eaten determines a question of future health and happiness or even life or death.

"Our little girl when but five weeks old had to undergo a very severe operation which left her unable to take her nourishment in the natural way, that is by nursing, and of course she had to be fed. She was naturally frail and the food did not help her. At the age of eleven weeks she was subject to a second operation and from that time she continued to grow thinner and weaker until she was but a mere shadow," so writes a lady of Ohio.

"We tried many kinds of infant foods and then the doctor directed us to try Grape-Nuts. We did so and at the end of the first week noticed an improvement and after the third began to improve rapidly. As we continued to give her Grape-Nuts she kept gaining until she is now more than two years old and strong and healthy. Her main food has always been Grape-Nuts and to Grape-Nuts she owes her life. Naturally we are firm friends of the food and never lose an opportunity to speak a good word for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Thousands of Women Restored to Health by Swamp-Root

Women as Well as Men Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

WOMEN suffer untold misery because the nature of their disease is not always correctly understood; in many cases when doctoring, they are led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for their ills, when in fact disordered kidneys are the chief cause of their distressing troubles. Perhaps you suffer almost continually with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and utter exhaustion.

YOUR poor health makes you nervous, irritable and at times despondent. But thousands of just such suffering or broken-down women are being restored to health and strength every day by the use of that wonderful discovery, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

NOT only does Swamp-Root bring new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of the trouble, but by treating the kidneys it acts as a general tonic and food for the entire constitution.

DIDN'T KNOW I HAD KIDNEY TROUBLE

MRS. A. L. WALKER.

I had tried so many remedies without their having benefited me that I was about discouraged, but in a few days after taking your wonderful Swamp-Root I began to feel better.

I was out of health and run down generally, had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not know that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root, as above stated. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Gratefully yours,

MRS. A. L. WALKER,
46 West Linden St., Atlanta, Ga.

TODAY I AM IN SPLENDID HEALTH

MRS. H. N. WHEELER.

About 18 months ago I had a very severe attack of grip. I was extremely sick for three weeks, and when I finally was able to leave my bed I was left with excruciating pains in my back, which convinced me that I had a severe kidney trouble. My physical condition was such that I had no strength and was all run down.

My sister, Mrs. C. E. Littlefield, of Lynn, advised me to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a trial.

I procured a bottle, and inside of three days commenced to get relief. I followed up treatment with shorter, and at the completion of this one found I was completely cured. My strength returned and today I am as well as ever.

My business is that of canvasser. I am on my feet a great deal of the time, and have to use much energy in getting around. My cure is therefore all the more remarkable, and is exceedingly gratifying to me.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. H. N. WHEELER
29 Prospect St., Lynn, Mass.

SWAMP-ROOT A BLESSING TO WOMEN

MRS. E. AUSTIN.

My kidneys and bladder gave me great trouble for over two months and I suffered untold misery. I became weak, emaciated and very much run down. I had great difficulty in retaining my urine, and was obliged to pass water very often night and day. After I had used a sample bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, sent me on my request, I experienced relief and I immediately bought of my druggist two large bottles and continued, taking it regularly. I am pleased to say that Swamp-Root cured me entirely. I can now stand on my feet all day without any bad symptoms whatever. Swamp-Root has proved a blessing to me.

Gratefully yours,
MRS. E. AUSTIN,
19 Nassau St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Every Day We Present Our Side of Economical Buying to our public in plainest English we can command, never under any circumstances lifting up the quality of goods to widen the disparity of low prices, avoiding all exaggeration as something unsafe, but always laying great stress upon the superiority of our goods, which, indeed, seems superfluous, as that is a matter of common knowledge.

Sometimes, perhaps, a bit wordy, but in the main keeping close to the point and telling our daily story in a modest fashion, as becomes the leading Retail Store of the Greater City.

This morning just some "Pertinent Paragraphs," as the paragraphers say.

New Arrivals in the Colored Dress Goods Section.

For one-third less than regular prices, as follows—2 quart size, 50c each; 3 quart, 60c each; 4 quart, 75c each.

Our Great Range of Umbrellas for Men and Women.

About Kirk's Famous Soap and Our Half Price for It.

When we gave you the news in Tuesday's papers of the big soap deal we had made, whereby we were able to offer Kirk's renowned 10-cent Soap for just half price, we expected the enthusiastic response we received.

The demand was enormous and the buyers were most appreciative both of the soap itself and of our services in supplying it at such unusual prices. Yet, owing to the largeness of the invoice, odors are still intact.

The same low price as before, 5c a cake, or 50c the dozen—a saving of an even half of regular prices.

Friday, November 6, 1903.

Founder's day exercises passed off smoothly and were of the most entertaining and instructive character. Prof. Woodrow Wilson and Judge Peter S. Grosscup delivered addresses worthy of the closest attention. With these exercises the art galleries are thrown open for public inspection. They contain much of beauty and interest and will no doubt be thronged during the succeeding weeks by lovers and students of art. This annual exhibition has come to be a feature of the life of the Greater Pittsburgh, and is classed among the great art exhibits of the world.

The fact has been developed that the Alaskan boundary award did not fix the line in a stretch of territory 140 miles in length. It is a wild region, covered by perpetual ice and snow, and of no apparent importance to either country, but the sovereignty is still left in dispute. The omission is due to the fact that the commission did not have before it data upon which to fix the boundary line in accordance with the principles adopted in their award. The matter should be susceptible of easy settlement by negotiation between the two governments, but it should be done at once, before any interests grow up to complicate the matter.

There is every indication that the Havana lottery bill will pass both houses of the Cuban congress. The avowed purpose is to secure money to pay the army from the lottery franchise. This cannot be regarded as evidence of the highest standards of civilization, but before condemnation is passed it will be well to remember that Cuba is young and that the United States has not passed far beyond the legalized lottery stage. Moreover, the Latins are more given to that style of gambling and less to adventures on the stock exchange than the Teutonic races. The Cuban government simply caters to a popular taste to secure revenues rendered more or less necessary by its failure to place a $35,000,000 loan.

As Allegheny county turns its attention from the political campaign to affairs of other nature it is only proper to say a word about the gentleman who presided at Republican headquarters, Hon. Thomas J. Ford. Mr. Ford conducted his campaign skillfully and along legitimate lines. He inspired no calumny, indulged no braggadocia, countenanced no vituperation, but he worked ardently and quietly for the success of his party's ticket. In short, Mr. Ford conducted a model campaign throughout and deserved the success that crowned it. His ability needs no trumpeting, for it has won its own recognition, and all who came in contact with the chairman of the Republican county committee during the strenuous days found him a gentleman.

Pittsburgh was shocked yesterday by news of the death of Mrs. Mary E. Schenley at her home in London. Mrs. Schenley was known personally to but few of the present residents of Pittsburgh, but through her works she was known to many and her memory will ever be kept alive by her gift of a magnificent park to the city. Illness prevented Mrs. Schenley from gratifying a desire to make the journey to Pittsburgh to see the improved park her generosity made possible, but on every occasion she bore the city and its people in mind, as she enjoyed their grateful remembrance. Schenley park will be her most lasting monument and it is one that will speak eloquently for her admirable qualities of head and heart. Pittsburgh mourns sincerely.

Edward Atkinson, the Boston statistician, has a told-you-so article in the Baltimore Manufacturers' Record in regard to the present check of iron production. He recalls that in an article published in 1890 he predicted a temporary depression in the present decade, such as has now come, but he considers it as altogether temporary and that the normal tendency will be for demand to outrun production. By 1910 he thinks the United States will have to double the present pig iron output in order to supply actual demand, and he urges the necessity of timely search for additional sources of ore supply. There can be no doubt that the present falling off in demand is due to transient causes and that those who expect it to continue will find themselves sadly left.

While official Germany is apparently taking no notice of the Panama imbroglio, the German press finds in it a fresh excuse for abuse of the United States. One Berlin paper says the United States has instigated the rebellion for its own purposes and another declares the revolution explains why the president has taken no steps to negotiate with Nicaragua, though two months have elapsed since the rejection of the treaty at Panama. We are certain the United States government had no hand in starting the revolution, though it would be none of Germany's business if it had, but the comments of the German papers indicate the trend of the German mind and the fact that if Germany had been in the position of the United States it would have done what the United States is charged with doing.

A Simple Test.

The Citizens machine demonstrated its control of select council by electing its party candidate for clerk of council. Towards the last of the recent campaign attempts were made to apologize for the Citizens party record on the ground that fulfillment of platform pledges had been obstructed by "the air-tight combine" of select council. This pretense was exposed and condemned in the Orphans' manifestoes, but it is now being renewed. The Dispatch says: "It may be doubted whether the administration now has the power to overcome the combination against it, but it can at least endeavor to place the responsibility where it may belong." There is good ground for believing that the administration has been a part of the combination and that Chairman Verner has been its envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary.

There is a simple way of clearing up the situation. Propose the abolition of the rump committees of select council. The vote will show where councilmen stand in this hold-up game. The rump committees are indefensible as parts of the regular organization of councils for consideration of public business. There is no sense in referring business already considered by the joint committees to the select council section of those committees. The process makes simply for obstruction and delay and is an aid to hold-up tactics. The hold-up of the railroad ordinances is not being managed through the regular committees of councils, but through the rump committees, and their abolition would unloose the present cinch of the air-tight combine.

Trouble of Our Making.

Senator Morgan of Alabama, with characteristic dull persistence, argues that the Panama revolution settles things in favor of the Nicaragua route. The advocates of that engineering monstrosity will resume their ill-advised agitation at the approaching session. If it were not for the fact that Senator Morgan and his adherents imagine that the Nicaragua route would be more advantageous to the gulf states than the Panama route, there would never have been any question about the matter, as there is hardly any room for comparison between the two, considered as engineering propositions. Although the Nicaragua route is much closer to the gulf states, yet it is so long and intricate that it will not be as beneficial to their commercial position as the Panama route would be.

The present troubles in Panama are the direct result of the hampering conditions introduced into the isthmian canal act by the adherents of the Nicaraguan route. The sensible course to have pursued would have been to secure the franchises of the French company so as to ensure the construction of the canal. The United States would then have been in an advantageous position to negotiate for any additional concessions desired. But the act virtually conditioned our purchase of the French company's franchises upon the consent of Colombia. The politicians of that country have been playing for all they imagined it to be worth the opportunity gratuitously conferred upon them. They have evidently planned, in addition to extracting many millions from this country, to get back the franchises now held by the French company and bag the forty millions which our government is to pay for them and the work so far done under them. Of course, the French company had to get busy to protect its interests, and it has doubtless promoted the Panama revolution. The whole business is the result of our bad management and it will constitute a very discreditable chapter of our political history.

Not Sound Advice.

It is announced in connection with the coming convention of the American Federation of Labor at Boston that President Samuel Gompers has written a letter voicing the sentiment that "whatever may happen the wages of labor must not be reduced." It is said the convention is certain to vote for resistance to every attempt to cut wages, though it will condemn the principle of the "sympathy" strike.

We hope Mr. Gompers is not accurately quoted and we hope the convention will take no such extreme action as indicated. As The Gazette has often said, labor is entitled to all that capital can afford to pay, but it is ridiculous to claim for it more than that. In the general advance of prices during the period of unexampled prosperity that began in 1897, labor has shared in the fullest measure. Wages have gone to a higher average than was ever before known. The signs of the present are that all interests must readjust themselves to a lower scale of prices and labor ought to be ready to bear its just share. It should not bear one cent of reduction that is not necessary to enable the employer to show a balance on the right side of the ledger, but it ought to be ready to share with the employer whatever reduction is essential to stimulate a consumptive demand that will keep both employed.

If labor shall take the course of resisting any reduction of wages "whatever may happen," there will surely be long suspensions, in which capital will lose interest on investment and depreciation of plant and labor will be deprived of earning power. In such struggles are forced because labor will not accept a reasonable share of the necessary reduction of costs, capital will certainly prolong the suspension until it can resume on its own terms, and those terms are apt to include an extra profit from labor to make good the losses suffered by idleness; that is, to pay interest and depreciation during the period of idleness. Capital is in better position to stand the strain than labor and that is why it always wins in a protracted fight.

On the other hand, if labor shows a disposition to accept its fair share of reduction, capital will likely make that reduction as small as possible and exert every effort to maintain full employment. President Gompers, President Mitchell and the other leaders of millions ought to be able to understand the necessities of the case as well as the employers of the men who look to them for guidance. They ought not, in the interest of their organizations, give any advice to the men to "resist any attempt at reduction of wages," or "whatever else may happen there must be no reduction in wages of labor." Those phrases need amendment to make them read "unjust reduction in wages," for the full employment of labor next year will depend upon such reductions of cost as may encourage exports and invite consumers to place orders.

The Extra Session.

The congress of the United States will meet on Monday next in extraordinary session at the call of the president. It is said the message that will be sent to congress at that time will be brief, not extending beyond 1,000 words. This will confine it easily within the space of an ordinary newspaper column, and even with a heading and brief introduction, if printed in the ordinary type, it ought not to exceed that amount of space. The brevity of the message confirms reports which have reached the public that it will treat only of the Cuban reciprocity treaty, to which, indeed, the call for the extraordinary session confines the business of congress at this meeting. The treaty ought to be quickly disposed of and probably will be. Unless the Democrats desire to make some campaign capital by oratorical excursions into the closely related field of general tariff legislation the debate ought to be only perfunctory. If the expressions of congressmen since the adjournment of congress last spring count for anything there will be little said on the Republican side, though the temptation to reply to Democratic free trade arguments will be strong. The business before congress, however, is not tariff revision, but a specific measure of reciprocity, and it will depend much on the good nature of the speaker whether divergences will be permitted. Mr. Cannon may consider, as the business of the session will be easily disposed of and as there will be plenty of time, that it will do good rather than harm to permit the spellbinders to blow off their head of steam in advance of the regular session, and he may be indulgent accordingly.

Business incidental to a new session of congress wholly independent of the measure presented in the president's call will be the organization of the house. It has been customary to refer to the member for the Twelfth district of Illinois as "Speaker" Cannon, but he is not yet speaker, and the first thing that must be done on the assembling of congress before the business to be submitted by the president is considered, is to elect a speaker. Other officers of the house must also be chosen. The house of representatives, lacking a speaker, will be called to order by the clerk of the house, the Hon. Alexander McDowell of Sharon, Pa. Then will come the election of the speaker. Mr. Cannon, however, is without Republican opposition, the succession to Speaker Henderson having been settled before the last congress adjourned. His election will be a merely formal ratification by roll call of action agreed upon long in advance. The clerk of the house is also complimented by being without an opponent. Maj. McDowell will have the unanimous vote of the Republicans in the house for re-election to the place he now fills so creditably. The Democrats will, of course, have candidates, but the vote for them will be a mere empty compliment.

There will be, also, the important work of committee organization, but aside from ways and means and the committee on accounts, it is not likely that the make-up of committees will be announced much before the regular session, if at all before that time. The speaker will use the time placed at his disposal by the extra session to take a leisurely survey of the ground. These features of the work of the extra session will have more important bearing on the work of the regular session. While not directly related to the purpose of the November meeting of congress, they are necessarily incident to it.

Why Tammany Won.

Adverting to the fact that Tammany won despite the fact that the preachers and churches were against it, the Post argues that the people resent the exertion of religious influence upon politics and that the attempt to lay a moral ban upon a political organization increases the size of its majorities. This is mere twaddle. The people resent attempts to decide political issues upon ecclesiastical grounds, but it does not follow that the pulpit should be dumb when political acts violate the moral sentiments of the community.

The reason for Tammany's success is the same old reason that has restored it to power before after a wave of reform sentiment had swept it out of office. The mass of the people of New York desire what is known as the continental Sunday and detest what is known as the American Sabbath. They see no reason why they should not get their beer on Sunday as on any other day, and they want opportunities for recreation after their own fashion without making themselves liable to police raids. They have as strong objections to corruption and extravagance in municipal government as any other class of citizens, but they will put up with a great deal rather than sacrifice their ideas of personal liberty, which differ greatly from traditional American ideas. It is for this very reason that the basis of Tammany rule has frequently been described as the alliance of the Puritan and the grafter.

Whether we like it or not the fact will have to be recognized that the tendency in all large cities, where the police power is controlled by popular election, is toward what is called the open town. If an administration is of a character to make the town tight and dry, there is a popular reaction against it, no matter how great its merits. This is a problem that must be solved in redeeming American cities from ring rule.

BOY'S PLAY HAS FATAL ENDING

Franklin Keller, 8 Years Old, Is Crushed to Death by Heavy Transfer Wagon.

RETURNING FROM SCHOOL

Two Men Were Run Over and Killed by Railroad Trains—Fell from Roof Ends in Death—Other Morgue Cases Yesterday.

Franklin Keller, 8 years old, of No. 641 Summerlea street, was crushed to death yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock by a horse at Maryland avenue and Elmer street. The boy was returning from school and stopped to play with some boys at Maryland avenue. He did not hear the approach of a heavy wagon of the Cunningham Tranfer Company, and he ran into the horse, which knocked him down and trampled him upon the face, crushing it. The wagon crossed his neck before the driver, O. W. Stueber, of No. 1254 Fulton street, Allegheny, could stop the team. Young Keller was removed to the office of Dr. R. W. Clark of No. 655 Maryland avenue and died about 10 minutes after the accident.

The boy was the son of Elliot Keller, a member of the firm of Keller Brothers, coal dealers, in Frankstown avenue. Mr. Keller is hunting in the woods of Canada, having left Pittsburgh about a week ago. He is far from telegraphic communication, and when he will be able to reach home is not known. Mrs. Keller was prostrated with grief upon learning of the death of her son.

D. N. Ables of Sheraden, a brakeman on the Ft. Wayne railroad, was instantly killed at 7:30 o'clock last night in the Washington street yards, Allegheny. Ables was working on a shifting engine and was giving a signal when a passenger train struck him, hurling him some distance. He was dead when picked up. Ables was 27 years old and married. John A. Peck, 46 years old and married, of No. 8210 McClurg street, was killed on the Panhandle railroad yesterday at Bridgeville. He was walking on the tracks and when a train struck him he was hurled about 20 feet into a creek. Peck was a carpenter and had been employed by his widow and six children.

William Alfred Cook, 10 years old, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 4060 Penn avenue, of injuries received from falling off the roof of a three-story house Wednesday afternoon. The boy had gone to the roof of a newly-constructed house in Fisk street to play with some companions. While running near a ledge he lost his balance and fell.

Mrs. Adolph Apolonia Giegrich, 50 years old, was found dead in bed at her home, No. 615 Perry street. Death was due to heart disease.

VISIT FROM A WHALE.

Monster of the Deep Makes Short Call to See Sights in New York Bay.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Among the prominent arrivals in New York today was a big humpbacked whale, variously estimated by those who saw him to be from 75 to 150 feet long. Capt. Doerr of the ocean-going tug Unique was the first to see Mr. Whale.

At first sight he took the big mammal to be a wreck bottom up, until it disappeared, sending a column of water high in the air. The whale moved leisurely around the bay for a couple of hours and was seen by a number of seafaring men, after which he put out to sea again. This is the first time in 15 years a whale has come inside of Sandy Hook.

Clusky was paid on Saturday and told his family that he was going to the city to get a suit of clothes. On Monday morning Daniel Shulz found shoes and clothes which were identified as Clusky's under the Sharpsburg bridge over Pine creek. All his clothing was there. Clusky has a wife and two young children.

W. R. Rees, a watchman at the Fleming park tower of the Pittsburgh Charleroi & Youghiogheny railroad, created a sensation yesterday afternoon by disrobing and jumping into the Ohio river. FORMER BANK CASHIER CONFESSES SHORTAGE

Harry J. Hoover of Newark, O., Admits Defalcation of $44,000.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWARK, O., Nov. 5.—Harry J. Hoover, former cashier of the Licking County bank and former cashier of the Peoples National bank today confessed to being short in his accounts $44,000. Hoover, who was a presidential elector in 1900, president of the Newark school board, and an intimate friend of Senator Hanna and Gov. Nash, is seriously ill at his home.

It is alleged he began manipulating the books 10 years ago in the Peoples bank. Recently the Licking County bank directors learned the situation. Hoover surrendered a $20,000 building and a $42,000 life insurance policy and other property. The bank directors took Hoover's note for $41,000 and paid $24,000 themselves to the bank in the presence of other Newark bankers to make the institution sound.

Both banks this afternoon made public statements to the effect that the credit of neither is impaired in the least.

KRAKAUER PIANOS
CHAUNCEY PIANOS

There are two makes of pianos, the Krakauer and Chauncey, deserving of unstinted praise. The Krakauer is especially well known in Pittsburgh and environs. It is a most popular piano for the reason that it has such a rich, musical tone. And tone is everything in a piano. The Krakauer's friends have spread its name and fame broadcast, and it is they who are really responsible for the large sale of this piano in this community.

The Chauncey is a piano that appeals at once to lovers of music the first time it is heard. Its beautiful, liquid tone and marvelous durability combine to make it a favorite instrument for the home, especially where there are children learning to play.

Prices on these pianos are consistently moderate. You are cordially invited to call and hear and see these instruments.

Easy terms of payment if desired.

HARMONY AMONG THE GLASS MEN

Manufacturers and Employes Reach Agreement for Mutual Benefit.

INCREASED WAGES SECURED

Window Glass Workers Have Agreed to Stand by Their Employers in an Effort to Prevent Importations from France and Belgium.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.

In consequence of securing an increase of wages, reckoned at about 2½ per cent over the rates prevailing during the last year, the window glass workers have agreed to stand firmly by the manufacturers and to assist in preventing the importation of a vast amount of glass from Belgium and France.

The meeting at which the settlement was made was held today at the Manufacturers' club when the officers and wage committee of the Window Glass Workers' association; L. A. No. 300, Knights of Labor, of which Simon Burns is president, and the Window Glass Workers' Association of America, of which John Phillips, Jr., is president, discussed the disputes of the trade with representatives of the manufacturers who control more than four-fifths of the trade of the United States.

J. R. Johnson of Hartford City, Ind., presided at the meeting and the representatives of the workers are said to have spoken for fully 15,000 operatives out of a total of 20,000 engaged in the trade.

With the decision reached today it is stated that the price of window glass in this country will be advanced at least 20 per cent, and will enable the manufacturers to successfully resist the importation of foreign glass.

The meeting today ended the fight which the two organizations of workers have waged on each other for several years, and is said to have been marked by a spirit of friendliness not apparent in former years.

ENGLISHMEN LEARN FROM YOUNG AMERICA

Schoolboy Tells Mosely Commissioners What Would Happen in Case of Trouble.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Freckle-faced lads of a "district school" measured intellects with members of the Mosely educational commission today at Palos park. It was during morning classes in the little frame building in Palos that the Englishmen appeared. After some commonplace questions Dick O'Connell made himself famous in the following dialogue:

"The boy in the third seat back, what's your name?

"Richard O'Connell."

"You have studied history? What did we have in 1776?"

"The revolution."

"Against whom was it?"

"The British redcoats."

"What did we do to them?"

"We licked 'em."

"Did we ever have any other trouble with them?"

"Yes; in 1812 we licked them again."

"If we ever have any more trouble with them would we lick them?"

"You bet."

At this point one of the commissioners lost patience and remarked:

"How perfectly ridiculous to teach a child a thing like that!"

The commission then decided it did not want to investigate conditions further in the "district schools."

SECRET WEDDING AMAZES NEW YORK

Scion of Goelet Family to Marry Restaurant Keeper's Daughter.

TALE IS PROMPTLY DENIED

Father of the Bride-to-Be Makes the Announcement, but Declines to Make Any Explanations—Priest Is Non-Committal When Questioned.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Robert Goelet, son of Mrs. Ogden Goelet and brother of Miss May Goelet, who is to be married to the English duke of Roxburghe, denied this afternoon the truth of the story that he had married or was about to marry Miss Eleanor L. Anderson, the daughter of William Anderson, who has a restaurant on Sixth avenue, just above Forty-second street.

"It is a funny joke, isn't it?" he said to your correspondent after reading the newspaper story.

"Somebody is doing it to be funny. There isn't a word of truth in it at all. I am not married and I do not intend to marry. I have not the honor of knowing either Miss Anderson or her father. So far as I know the story is not true of my cousin, Robert Walton Goelet."

Robert W. Goelet said this afternoon that he knew nothing of the reported marriage. The Rev. Father Lavelle of St. Patrick's cathedral, when seen this afternoon, and asked whether or not the story of the marriage was true, replied:

"I don't know anything about it."

"Can't you verify it or deny it?" he was asked.

"Now, look here," he answered. "Put yourself in this man's place. Suppose you got married in this way—would you under those circumstances wish us to confide in everyone that came along? Why don't you see him about it?"

These are the facts: Mr. Anderson has said that his daughter, Eleanor L. Anderson, is to be married to a young man, "J. Ogden Goelet, Jr." Further he has refused to talk. He and his family have preserved the utmost secrecy about the marriage and have refused to talk about it further than the father's announcement. There is no member of any of the prominent Goelet families by the name of J. Ogden Goelet, Jr.

At the Goelet residence this afternoon instructions had been given to the servants not to take any notes or messages regarding the report of the marriage of Robert Goelet.

SEASON OPENS BRILLIANTLY

The Pittsburgh Orchestra Enters Upon Ninth Winter With Great Eclat.

VICTOR HERBERT AT HIS BEST

Madame Louise Homer Heartily Welcomed After Two-Years' Absence. From Start to Ending of Concert Music Lovers Pay Tribute.

The Pittsburgh Orchestra last evening inaugurated its ninth season by a concert which in brilliancy and distinction was a fitting close to a day which was already memorable for its eclat and success. It seems especially fitting that a day of magnificent intellectual exposition should be followed by an evening of music of the highest artistic values, and to this occasion the whole of Pittsburgh looks forward. Always are they notable events, not only as the initiative of the musical season, but also in the world of society.

The audience which thronged Carnegie Music hall last evening was a distinctive gathering of the wealth and culture of the city. Many social leaders, men and women prominent in music and art circles and a large number of distinguished guests were present. There were several box parties, and the lower floor and the first balcony were well filled with exquisitely gowned women and their escorts. The cream, crimson and gold of the music hall formed an effective background for the sartorial elegance of the scene, and as one looked about the great half circle the charm of blended color and the flash of jewels made a more attractive picture then any in the gallery above.

Generous Applause Bestowed.

Many of the habitues of the orchestra concerts were in their accustomed places, and while a few well-known faces were missing from their last year's positions, they were sure to be seen in some other part of the house. The chief charm of the audiences lay in its mood of bonhomie, in the greetings exchanged so familiarly that it seemed that everyone knew everyone else, and in a genuinely enthusiastic expectation of the program which was to follow, culminating in a perfect storm of applause, when, after all the orchestra members had entered and were seated, Victor Herbert took his accustomed place.

The personnel of the orchestra has been so little changed that it was a welcoming home of old friends. This long association of capable artists is a great factor in ensemble work, and it is in this that the Pittsburgh orchestra excels. From the beginning to the end of the program there was a splendid uniformity of finish, a thorough appreciation of the needs of the composition interpreted, which was at once satisfying and successful. The first number was the Dvorak overture, "Husitzka," which has seldom been heard in Pittsburgh and never has been played better than last night. To this Herbert gave an interpretation vigorous, yet thrilled with plaintive solemnity.

Beethoven and Wagner.

In the next number for orchestra, Beethoven's "Eighth Symphony," there was opportunity for some delightful string work. The strings are a strong feature of the Pittsburgh orchestra and it is possible they have improved in quality since last year. The second movement of this symphony, the Allegretto Scherzando, was played with especial charm. Several times, also, the delightful melodic spell of the woodwinds was much in evidence. The work as played by Herbert, left a universally pleasing impression, not only for the lively cheerfulness of its themes, but for the life which the baton gave to them.

Since it would be quite impossible to have a thoroughly satisfying program without at least one Wagner number, it was with eager anticipation that the Bacchanale from "Tannhauser" was awaited. This is a modification of the Venusberg music as it was originally written, and is in the manner of Wagner's later period. The interpretation of this roused the greatest enthusiasm amongst its hearers. Herbert was recalled again and again and yet again, and each time acknowledged but just became a nation, is compounded of many minds, not graciously indicating that the appreciation accorded him should be given to the orchestra, and though he refused to give a supplementary number he was highly disappointing, the personal ovation was redoubled in strength.

Madame Homer Welcomed.

Mme. Louise Homer, contralto, was the soloist of the occasion and received a hearty welcome after her two years' absence from our concert stage. She is well known as one of the leading contraltos of the Metropolitan opera house, New York, but Pittsburgh has particular pride in her, since she was born here. She had chosen two admirable selections, the "Orpheus" aria and Liszt's "Loreley." During the recitative of the first-named the full beauty of her voice was not apparent, but when she began the "Che Faro Senza Euryd'ce" the smooth resonance of her powerful organ was overwhelmingly sweet. She sang with feeling and much dramatic color. Her voice seems more of a mezzo-soprano than a true contralto so wide is her range and so perfect her tone in the upper register. Madame Homer possesses an unusually attractive personality, unassuming yet dignified. She was recalled with so much fervor and earnestness that she consented to sing an encore for each number and after singing the "Loreley" she gave the "Love Song" from "Samson and Delilah" with an expression and a vocal beauty which were truly magnificent.

The last number of this program of such all-chosen excellence was Herbert's own composition, the last movement from the Columbus suite, the "Triumph," for organ and orchestra. The organ part was played by Walter E. Hall, organist and choirmaster of Trinity. This strong and virile masterpiece was given a superb rendering, the organ having been tuned and the pitch changed to meet that of the orchestra. Working up to a splendid climax, the powerful finale brought to a close this unusual and attractive opening of the Pittsburgh orchestra's season.

EMPEROR AND CZAR KISS EACH OTHER ON CHEEKS

WIESBADEN, GRAND DUCHY OF HESSE, Nov. 5.—Emperor William arrived here at midday from Wiesbaden and was cordially received at the railroad station by the czar, the grand duke of Hesse and Prince Henry of Prussia. Their majesties kissed each other on both cheeks and then drove to Wolfsgarten, where they lunched together. While at the castle of Armstadt Chancellor von Buelow and Count Lamsdorff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, had a prolonged talk. One of the subjects discussed was the commercial treaty between Russia and Germany.

HEIR TO $50,000,000 POISONED AT A BANQUET

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—A cable dispatch from London announces that James Henry Smith of this city, known as "Client" Smith, who inherited $50,000,000 a few years ago from his uncle, has been poisoned a few days ago at Hinchley, England. He will recover, but is still quite ill. He had been visiting his sister, Mrs. George Cooper, after enjoying shooting in Scotland. It is said that he was poisoned by food eaten at a banquet with which he entertained royalty and other members of the exclusive set.

DOLE RECOMMENDS THAT CHINESE BE ADMITTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Gov. Sanford B. Dole of the territory of Hawaii, in his annual report to the secretary of the interior, recommends that a limited immigration of Chinese laborers to the territory be permitted, conditioned upon their engaging only in agricultural, mill and domestic work for him during their stay, and subject to deportation at their own expense upon their ceasing to do so.

ercises and will be open until the first of the year.

Seated on the platform in the front row were the four guests of the institute, President Wilson, Judge Grosscup, Dr. McConnell and Mr. Hassam, with Mr. Frew and Col. Church. In the rows back of them were the board of trustees, the Rt. Rev. Courtlandt Whitehead, Episcopal bishop of Pittsburgh, Dr. J. Guy McCandless, ex-Mayor W. J. Diehl, ex-Mayor Henry P. Ford and Judges J. A. Evans and J. J. Miller.

The exercises were under the direction of President Frew of the board. When the last peals of the organ had died away and the invocation had been made he introduced the first speaker, President Wilson.

Ovation for Woodrow Wilson.

When President Wilson arose to speak he was accorded an ovation that showed he was no stranger to many in the audience. His voice was so clear that he was heard in all parts of the large auditorium, and the interest in what he had to say was evident from the first in the complete attention given him. Throughout his address applause was given as he made each telling point, and at its close he was forced to rise again. Just a short introduction was given before he launched on the main subject he was to discuss, "The Statesmanship of Letters." He said in part:

The atmosphere of our time is not literary. The man of letters is made to feel by the challenges of the modern world that he must justify his existence, must prove himself life and bent upon a men self-pleasing use of his faculties, but seriously and serviceably at work on what will advance the world's business.

Certainly no men ever stood in greater need than we do of leadership and the comprehensive thinking which interprets life. As the almost infinite complexity and unlimited scope of modern undertakings has made captains of industry necessary and captains of labor, so also has it made it necessary that there should be captains of the mind capable of a sort of statesmanship in thinking.

Tribute to Ambition.

No doubt self-interest plays a chief part in the ambitions of every people and shows itself more warm or more admirable in a nation than in an individual, but just because a nation, is compounded of many minds, not all of which have the same selfish objects, the unselfish motives which lift character to a purer air plays, also, a part in its career. It may be that politicians in Washington had their own selfish interests to serve in bringing us to blows with Spain and in sweeping the foreign dominions of the Spanish crown under our own rule, but the consciences of the vast majority of us are void of offense in that great matter.

We kept faith with Cuba, and we mean, with God's help, to keep faith also with the people of the Philippine Islands, by serving them and ameliorating their condition, by showing them the way to liberty without plundering them or making them our tools for a selfish end. It is the consciousness of such purpose that gives us self-respect and leads really to our hopeful visions of the future.

A financial crisis does not arise because of a sudden there is less money or less property, less capacity in the community, but because trust has received a sudden chill; and, confidence is chilled, not always because men have been too hopeful, because they have expected impossible things and have acted rashly in the heat of a speculative fever, but more often because the hopefulness of the time has been taken advantage of by men who deliberately trade in what they know to be of no value, because amidst a multitude of fraudulent proposals are plausibly commended to those who are for the moment excited by seeing everything turn to gold under their touch. This is but another way of saying that knowledge and honesty are the ballast of all business and that character is the only safeguard against disaster.

A nation's books are made up of tales and poems and editorials play no small part in the creation of the conditions with which the business man must deal. They exalt or discredit, they encourage or weaken; honesty of mind and uprightness of purpose.

Grosscup on Corporations.

Judge Grosscup, who followed immediately after President Wilson, in discussing "The Moral Side of Our Present Corporation Policy," told of the birth of the American corporation, that first they were chartered singly by the legislature and then arose the demand for general laws authorizing the granting of the seal of the state to the legal person known as the corporation. He described the gradual removal of the safeguards and the fact that now practically nothing but an application is needed to secure a charter. He continued:

"Until a few weeks ago there were corporations in this country capitalized for 10, 20, 30, perhaps 50 times what any honest set of assessors, charged with the duty of finding their value, would have fixed as their capitalization."

He said that while the wealth of the people at large has increased 50 per cent in the past 23 years the loanable capital, that which is given to some one else to invest has increased 500 per cent from $2,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000. He said that this has created an unjust but widespread disbelief in the justice of capital, that it creates a specially favorable environment, too dangerous not to be known but too persistent to be stopped. The instinct to own property and to be interested in venture is at the bottom of human nature, he said.

"It brought our fathers across the Atlantic; it brought your fathers across the Alleghanies. If this instinct for property cannot safely take its course in the legitimate proprietorship of the country it will be turned into the side alleys of speculation, the stock market, the bucket-shop, the race course, the gambling den."

Demand of the Future.

The judge expressed the belief that the time would come when some political party would voice the demand of the American people to reduce corporate politics to a basis where a corporation cannot, any more than a national bank or a savings bank, be dishonest without its being known beforehand that it was dishonest. The people are being educated to this now, he said.

At the conclusion of Judge Grosscup's address Col. Samuel Harden Church, secretary of the board of trustees, presented the report of the year's progress. He said in part:

has been removed, and it is hoped that Founder's day of 1904 will mark the dedication of the new institute with Andrew Carnegie as orator of the day.

There are now in the library 178,000 books, of which 112,000 are in the Central library and 66,000 in the branches. During the past year 450,000 persons have used the various reading rooms while the home circulation of books amounted to 1,568,000, an increase of 8 per cent over the previous year, with a decrease of 1 per cent in fiction. There were 78,500 volumes issued to the schools alone, from carefully selected collections. The total number of books and magazines circulated and used in the reading rooms was 1,200,000.

It is expected that the sixth and largest branch library building, located in East Liberty, will be dedicated early next year.

Museum Department Outgrown.

The overflowing riches of our museum have forced the trustees to rent a large dwelling house in the Oakland district, where a portion of the staff will be located and will carry on their work until such time as the promised new quarters become available.

The prize essay contest, which has become a popular and permanent feature of autumn work in the museum, will begin today, extending its privileges for the first time to the schools in Allegheny.

The annual exhibition this year is particularly effective in its recognition and encouragement of American art, and affords a unique opportunity for estimating the strength of a collection composed exclusively of American paintings.

The total number of works submitted to the jury for their consideration was 436, and the number selected was but 151. The great names do not govern the judgment of the jury, is shown by the fact that of the 151 canvases admitted into the exhibition 79 were submitted by painters who were represented this year for the first time in an annual exhibition at the Carnegie institute and not widely known in the field of art.

The conditions in the art gallery this year were an important painting by Henri Harpignies, a study by Anton Mauve and a painting by Adolphe Monticelli. This is the first year since the inauguration of the institute in which the trustees have had no opportunity to acknowledge a gift of paintings from their generous friends.

Letter from Andrew Carnegie.

Col. Church then read the following letter from Mr. Carnegie:

No. 2 East Ninety-first Street,
New York, Nov. 4, 1903.

S. H. Church, Esq., Secretary Board of Trustees, Carnegie Institute.

Dear Mr. Secretary—You command me not to fail to send what you call my usual letter, to be read to the audience on Founder's day. I regret with much pleasure, for, although absent as I have been from these ceremonies, I have never failed to be present in spirit, which is more than I can say for my congratulations to Pittsburgh. Messrs. Bushear and Stevenson were here to see me in regard to the technical school, and brought the great news that the work of the institute extensions had really begun; spades were in the ground. Gardener's tell us that the fruit which ripens slowly is always the best. Our institution has been highly favored in this respect. Fortunately, so much so that President Frew and the commission need not hesitate to push it to completion from the time on.

Chancellor Holland keeps me in mind at intervals that we have the biggest mastodon and also the biggest animal that ever lived.

Let us rejoice in the knowledge that we are to have one of the biggest buildings ever devoted to the public good and that it will be free to all the people.

You are favored with the presence of the president of Princeton university. When you have listened to him you will be inclined to exclaim: "Why a young man, how much older art thou than thy looks!" When the distinguished Judge Grosscup sits down another Shakespearean phrase will occur to your thoughts: "It doth appear you are a worthy judge. You know the law whereof you are a well deserving pillar. Your exposition hath been most sound."

With renewed congratulations upon the work begun, and happy in the work already accomplished, always very truly yours,

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

Mr. Carnegie's references to the delays in providing the institute site as well as his comment on President Wilson and Judge Grosscup were quickly appreciated by the audience.

Praise From Childe Hassam.

The last speaker was Childe Hassam, the New York artist, who was one of this year's jurors. His subject was "The Carnegie Institute in American Art Progress." He said, in part:

You have a very beautiful exhibition, and at the Pennsylvania academy they here also a very fine one. That of two are the best in this country is perhaps true in point of evenness and quality, and that there are other smaller ones all over the country on a level that they could afford due to your good example. Of course you cannot make good art popular any more than you can say what it is, why it is or what it is for. But you can develop the taste of the few who want to know and are allowed to know her secrets. Art is a continual evolution, and it appears here and there in the world as a genius. It is your intention to help find these rare flowers as they appear and foster them.

Following the address of Mr. Hassam was the announcement by Mr. Frew of the awards of the national art jury of prizes for the pictures displayed in the Carnegie galleries. The organ solo by Mr. Lemare concluded the exercises and the audience then adjourned to the newly-opened exhibition, which has already been described in The Gazette.

No formal reception was tendered the visitors this year, as has been done in some cases in former celebrations of the day, but all of the visitors were introduced to a number of the men and women present.

Judge Grosscup returned on the Pennsylvania limited last evening to Chicago. He expressed his regret that he could not accept the extended invitation to remain longer here. President Wilson is the guest of Mr. Frew, while Mr. Hassam is the guest of Director John W. Beatty of the department of fine arts. All reached the city yesterday morning.

Three Artists Prominent in This Year's Exhibit

Winner of Gold Medal. Winner of Bronze Medal. Member of the Jury.

The Winning Pictures

These are the winners of the honors, as announced by President W. N. Frew of the board of directors of the institute yesterday afternoon:

Medal of the first class, Frank W. Benson, Salem, Mass.; painting, "A Woman Reading."

Medal of the second class, Bryson Burroughs, New York; painting, "Ariadne Abandoned."

Medal of the third class, W. L. Lathrop, New Hope, Pa.; painting, "Abandoned Quarry."

Honorable mention, David Edgson, Duluth, Minn.; painting, "Pont Aven;" and Van Dearing Perrine, New York; painting, "The Robbers."

WINNING PAINTINGS AND THEIR PAINTERS

Some Facts About the Work and Artists Given Distinction In This Year's Exhibition.

In the course of his address at the Founder's day exercises Artist Childe Hassam, himself a member of the national jury, said that while opinions as to relative values of the members of a collection of pictures might vary, the decision could not rest better than with painters themselves. There were, however, perhaps, who would dispute the awards made by the jury, but there are few who will deny to the winning paintings the possession of great merit.

Benson's picture, "A Woman Reading," which won the first prize, is rather remarkable in that it does not give the slightest view of the woman's countenance. The artist has drawn his character with her back to the onlooker. The figure is a full length study of a young girl. The pose is graceful and the technique is admittedly excellent. The award, a gold medal, carries $1,500 in cash.

Frank W. Benson is well known here. He is popular among his fellows, as evidenced by the fact that he was chosen in a former year as a member of the Carnegie jury, the competing artists selecting this jury. He is a native of Salem, Mass., and still calls that New England city his home.

Prominent American Artist.

Benson has long been one of the leaders of American artists. He is a member of the Ten American Painters. New York, is represented in the Library of Congress, Washington; Cincinnati museum, Academy of Fine Arts, Buffalo; Rhode Island School of Design, Providence, and in the Carnegie institute. He was awarded prizes at the National Academy of Design, New York, Boston, Cleveland and Chicago. Medals were bestowed upon him at the Columbian exposition, Chicago; the Exposition Universelle, Paris, 1900, and the Pan-American exposition, Buffalo, 1901. Two others of his paintings are shown in the present exhibition, "The Hilltop" and "Summer Sunlight."

"Ariadne Abandoned," the painting by Bryson Burroughs of New York, which was given the medal of the second class, is the only work of this artist shown in the present exhibition. Mr. Burroughs is a member of the Society of American Artists, Architectural league and Society of Mural Painters, New York, and the Art club, Cincinnati. He won a silver medal at the Pan-American exposition, and last year was awarded the president's prize at the Architectural league competition in New York.

His successful painting, "Ariadne Abandoned," represents the Cretan princess who had been deserted by Theseus after she had fled with him from the home of her father the fierce Minos, king of Crete. The painting is in sombre tones, befitting the subject. The woman's attitude is one of despair, but as in the picture by Benson, her face is not seen. The second prize, a silver medal, carries with it $1,000 in cash.

Third Prize Winner.

The winner of the third prize, W. L. Lathrop, is now a Pennsylvanian, his home being at New Hope, Pa., although he is a native of Illinois. His subject, "Abandoned Quarry," is a simpler one than the other two, but well done. He has been successful in several exhibitions in New York, Philadelphia, at the Pan-American exposition and elsewhere. He won second prize at the Worcester Art institute this year. The sum of $500 accompanies the third prize, a bronze medal.

David Edgson, one of the two artists accorded "honorable mention," is a native of Duluth, Minn. Like many other American artists, his main work has been done in Paris, where he is a member of the American Art association. His painting is a French scene, "Pont Aven."

Van Dearing Perrine of New York, whose painting, "The Robbers," won honorable mention, is a native of Kansas. He won the silver medal at the Charleston exposition last year. The picture is a scene in the palisades of the Hudson, two robbers lurking behind the towering bluffs intent upon their prey.

BIBLE MIRACLES WERE DISCUSSED

The Episcopal Church Congress Considers an Interesting Phase of Faith.

THINGS THAT BURDEN BELIEF

Dr. Edward E. Worcester Tells Why Narration of Loaves and Fishes Is Greatest of Nature Miracles in Scripture—Christian Experience Discussed.

"The Miraculous Element of Christianity" was the topic of discussion at the session of the 72d annual congress of the Protestant Episcopalians at Allegheny Carnegie Music hall last night. That the miracles of the Bible were a heavy burden to faith was an assertion made in the paper of one of the participants in the discussion. Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead presided at the meeting. Papers were read by the Rev. Dr. Elwood E. Worcester of Philadelphia and the Rev. Charles Fiske of Somerville, N. J., and the speakers were the Rev. Dr. Samuel M. McConnell of New Boston and the Rev. Thomas J. Curran of Wheeling, W. Va. Dr. Worcester said in part:

We cannot rest content with the agnostic conclusion that we are incapable of judging whether miracles may or may not happen. There the miracles stand in a book which we regard as the very word of God, and it is necessary for us to come to some understanding in regard to them. Most of the miracles recorded in the Bible are said to have been wrought to create faith. Alas, if we would tell the truth, they are a heavy burden to faith today. Our immediate motive is not so much craving for the miraculous, which at this date can hardly serve as a sign to us, but a natural desire to vindicate, so far as possible, the veracity of books containing reports of miracles.

The Loaves and the Fishes.

The speaker said the feeding of the 5,000 was the greatest nature miracle of all, and remarked:

"Some difficulties attending the literal and physical acceptance of this miracle are indeed overwhelming. According to the strict sense of the narrative it involves nothing less than the creation of new matter on an immense scale to supply what would require the readjustment of the solar system, if not of the universe. The physical basis, give loaves and fishes for such figures, once created, is called by an increase of substance until they suffice not only to feed 5,000 men, besides women and children, but to fill 12 baskets.

He said it would be idle and frivolous to believe the event had been brought about by an acceleration of the order of nature or by hypnotic influences imposed upon the people, and continued:

And when we ask for adequate motive for this stupendous overturning of the order of nature we do not find it because, as Keim says, it represents Jesus as performing an unnecessary miracle.

The Rev. Dr. Fiske reasoned the element of miracles in Christianity was an indispensable attribute in teaching the Christian faith.

He said he disapproved of distorting the gospel by insisting in the miraculous and asserted that faith, natural and practical method should be followed, by setting aside the mysterious and miraculous long enough to win men by the plain truths.

Aid to Gospel Teaching.

The speakers all discussed the theme with an indulgence for the power of the miracles in presenting the gospel and explaining the teachings of the Christian religion.

At the morning session "The Evidential Value of Christian Experience" was the subject on which various papers were read. The Rev. W. R. Breed of Lancaster was the first speaker and was followed by the Rev. Frederick Palmer of Andover, Mass., who referred adversely to a book written by Prof. James of Harvard, who has one theory that extreme cases of religious manifestations afford a more direct view of the nature of religion than those manifestations which are ordinary. The Rev. Charles F. Slattery of Faribault, Minn., was the last to speak on the topic of the day.

The congress will meet this morning in Pittsburgh Carnegie hall and discuss the subject, "Is It Desirable to Change the Name of the Church?"

ROOSEVELT WILL WIN.

Judge Grosscup, a Democrat, Conceded This—Favors Gray's Nomination.

The fact that Roosevelt holds the place now makes him certain of renomination and re-election, for I do not think the Democrats can defeat him if the candidate they decide upon next year," said Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Illinois, himself a Democrat of much influence in the west. He was one of the speakers at the Carnegie institute yesterday. He was interviewed by the Associated Press during a brief term. "Senator Hanna is a great power in the Republican party, but when a man like Roosevelt, who is popular with the masses, holds to the place and has no extra term bugaboo, an outsider can have no chance," he said.

Judge Grosscup is of the opinion that outlook favors the nomination of Judge Gray of Delaware as the Democratic candidate for president. In regard to McClellan, the successful Democratic candidate for mayor of Greater New York, Judge Grosscup called attention to the fact that McClellan was born in Germany and is therefore ineligible.

Fined on Swindling Charge.

Pasquale Deposito, an Italian, was arrested yesterday by Policeman William Riley, suspected of having swindled a number of his countrymen. The Italians complained that Deposito would assemble a number of their countrymen on promises of securing them work and would assess them $1 each for expenses. The Italians allege Deposito never secured them employment nor returned their money. Deposito was fined $50 by Police Magistrate Stewart. The fine was paid.

SENATOR HANNA'S VICTORY IN OHIO ADDS TO HIS PRESTIGE AS A LEADER

Discussion of Him as Presidential Possibility Renewed Despite Denials.

THE STATES ALREADY PLEDGED

It Is Believed That the Buckeye Leader Is Sincere in His Refusal to Have His Name Considered—Democrats in a Quandary.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building, WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.

Presidential gossip fills the air in Washington and candidates are being brought out and retired by the knowing ones with ease and abandon. The most interesting phase of the situation resulting from the elections is the talk of Senator Hanna as the possible leader of the Republican ticket next year. On the streets, in the hotel lobbies and in the departments can be heard men discussing this matter in all earnestness. Some profess to believe that Senator Hanna is not entirely sincere in his statement that he will not be a candidate against President Roosevelt, but those who know the senator and his characteristics know that he has a habit of saying just what he means and they therefore put full faith in his words. There is no discounting the fact that Hanna is one of the strongest and most popular men in public life. One cannot fail to gain that impression by listening to the remarks of statesmen, large and small, and politicians, big and little, who gather here and air their views. And it is equally certain that Hanna has gained a tremendous prestige by the magnificent victory over Tom Johnson in Ohio. This result is not looked upon as a local triumph. It is considered as the stamping out of the last vestige of Bryanism and therefore the Ohio campaign has assumed national importance in a large sense.

But with all of Hanna's strength and his popularity, the fact remains that enough states have pledged their votes in the national convention to Roosevelt to assure his nomination. Ohio is among that number and Senator Hanna presided over the convention which took this action. Therefore, to defeat the nomination of Roosevelt the delegates from a number of these states would be obliged to vote against the expressed wish of the Republicans of their states as expressed in convention. Such action would certainly be construed as a breach of faith. Would Hanna care for a nomination obtained in this way? It is safe to say that he would not. In fact he has said that he would not. In the face of these circumstances and his distinct declaration, there seems to be little ground for the gossip that has been revived by Hanna's great victory in Ohio.

Democrats Looking Over the Ground.

Democrats, too, are active in the choice of a candidate for president these days. Senator Stone of Missouri has come to Washington with a boom for Senator Cockrell, his colleague. There are many who believe that Cockrell would make a good candidate were it not for one thing, and that is his Civil War record. His biographical sketch in the congressional directory does not state that he served in the Confederate army, but it is the impression here that he did. Whether he did or not, he was identified with the Confederate cause, and although the issues of that struggle have long since been buried, yet it is scarcely considered safe to nominate an ex-confederate for the presidency. Gorman has been objected to on the ground that he is a southern man, but Gorman was identified with the Union and was recognized as a Union man during the Civil war, so that if the mere fact that he comes from a state that was part Union and part Confederate is considered a flaw in his candidacy, Cockrell's connection with the lost cause would certainly be far more objectionable. It was reported today that a conference had taken place between Ex-Senator Jones of Arkansas, Senator Stone and J. W. St. Clair of West Virginia, at which it had been agreed by these gentlemen to urge Senator Cockrell to come out as a candidate. Mr. St. Clair said that he had a talk with Jones and Stone and that they had discussed Cockrell, the other two gentlemen being in favor of Cockrell's candidacy. But as for himself, Mr. St. Clair said that he favored Gorman and considered the Marylander the best for the Democrats to nominate. His objection to Cockrell was the Missourian's record during the war, which he believed would prove a serious handicap to him in a campaign.

Foraker Lands a Plum.

The president has appointed Judge D. Thew Wright of Cincinnati to succeed Justice Hagner on the supreme bench of the District of Columbia. The announcement was made this afternoon by Attorney General Knox. This appointment has attracted general attention because of the circumstances surrounding it. Judge Wright was brought forward for the place by Senator Foraker, who had just about finished the plum when Senator Hanna entered a protest against giving the appointment to Wright. It was understood that Hanna was acting in the matter for George B. Cox, the Cincinnati Republican leader, who was violently opposed to Wright for political reasons. In this position the matter hung fire during the campaign in Ohio, it being now announced that the president was reversa to taking any action before election, lest it might be construed as unfriendly to Senator Hanna. But so far as known Mr. Hanna has not withdrawn his opposition to Wright and the case stands as a victory for Foraker and a rebuff for Hanna. It is usual in cases where the two senators are not able to agree upon an appointment, to give it to some other state and this was what was expected in this case. Those who are familiar with the situation declare that the action of the president was intended as a reward for Senator Foraker, but in no sense as a slap at Hanna.

Architects Are Chosen.

J. K. Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury, Glenn Brown and J. D. Fuller, the judges chosen to examine the architect's plans for the public buildings at Wheeling and Huntington, W. Va., announced their decision today. Marsh & Peter of Washington were the successful competitors for the Wheeling building, while the plans of Parker & Thomas of Baltimore were considered the best of those submitted for the building at Huntington. The building at Wheeling will cost $250,000 and that at Huntington $125,000. The accepted plans were declared to be excellent. Eight architects competed for the Wheeling building, among them Thomas Boyd & Co. of Pittsburgh. There were nine competitors for Huntington.

Lieutenant Kenny in Hospital.

Second Lieut. Frank R. Kenney, One Hundredth Company, Coast artillery, is at the Washington Barracks hospital for observation and treatment. Lieut. Kenney has an affection of the eyes caused by the glare of the sun on the water at West Terry, L. I., his station, but his trouble is not considered of a serious nature. He is from Pittsburgh, having been a resident of Knoxville for years. Lieut. Kenney was a member of the Tenth Pennsylvania regiment and served in the Philippines. After being mustered out at San Francisco, he returned to Pittsburgh and engaged in newspaper work, which he abandoned to enter the army. His wife was formerly Miss Nell Torrence, daughter of the city treasurer, David R. Torrence.

Our Congressmen at the Capital.

All of the Allegheny county members of congress are in Washington ready for the opening of the session except George Shiras III., who will arrive Sunday night. Representative Brown and wife arrived today and are at the New Willard, where they will live until December 1, when they will take possession of the John G. Carlisle house, 1758 M street, Northwest, which they have leased. This is a large and commodious dwelling, located just across the street from the home of Admiral Dewey and situated in the most desirable part of the city. Representative Porter and family have taken possession of the Cameron mansion in Lafayette square, while Mr. Porter has leased Representative Dalzell has opened his handsome home on New Hampshire avenue, he having been in Washington for several weeks engaged with department business and assisting in mapping out the program for congress. HANNA AND HERRICK BOTH MAKE DENIALS

Former Not After Presidency and Latter Doesn't Want Second Place.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—Letters and telegrams by the bushel continue to arrive in Senator Hanna's office. Hundreds of those letters boom him for the presidency. Many of these are written by well-known persons, and the great mass come from "Mr. Citizen," who thinks "Uncle Mark" would make a better president than "Teddy." A reporter today asked Mr. Hanna about the presidential boom. He smiled and said emphatically:

"I have said about that all I am going to say; and all I've got to say about it at this time is that I'll fire any body out of the sixth-story window who ever mentions that subject to me again."

While "Uncle Mark" was thus protesting Secretary Dover was busy signing for more telegrams which nominated the junior senator from Ohio for the highest office in the land.

Myron T. Herrick, elected governor of Ohio on Tuesday, was buried under a forest of chrysanthemums and a pile of letters and telegrams Thursday. Herrick had just returned from a conference with Mr. Hanna and Gen. Dick.

"How about the vice presidential boom that has started for you?" he was asked.

"My personal ambition will be entirely satisfied if I serve the people well as governor of Ohio. I seek no other honors."

There will probably be no change in the official head of the Society for Savings. After Mr. Herrick takes his place as governor he will remain the president of the big institution. But much of the work of the president will be performed by other officials.

TENDERLOIN HABITUE SAVES HELPLESS CHILD

"Flossie" Appears in Court as Prosecutor Instead of Old Familiar Role.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The face was not a strange one to the magistrate when Florence Doheny appeared in Jefferson Market court, but the hangers-on were surprised when she stepped forward as prosecutor instead of prosecuted.

As "Flossie" she was a well-known character in the Tenderloin until four months ago, but today she appeared to save a child from a fate like her own. She had seized little Maria Kelly from the hands of a drunken mother, who, it is alleged, tried to sell her to men of low character in a saloon for $25. A policeman was called, but he refused to listen to the story and told "Flossie" to go to the Tenderloin if she had any troubles to tell. The sergeant there was more attentive. While "Flossie" was explaining Mrs. Kelly came in, demanding the return of her child. "She is mine, and I will sell her if I want to," she screamed. She was locked up.

"Your face is familiar," said the magistrate when "Flossie" faced him today and told how she had rescued the child.

"Yes," she replied. "I have been here before, but I never will be again, unless it be as now, when I come to try to save a child from a fate like mine."

CHARLES B. ALLING DEAD.

Began Life Gathering Wool from Farmers and Dies Millionaire Mill Owner.

DERBY, CONN., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Exhaustion from his efforts at a fire in his woolen mill, coupled with excitement, caused the death of Charles B. Alling of this city today. He rallied last night, but this morning he was found dead in bed. Physicians said cerebal hemorrhage, due to excitement, caused his death.

Mr. Alling was the wealthiest man in Derby, and paid one-thirtieth of the city's taxes. His woolen mill is said to be the oldest and largest in the country. He began life gathering wool from the farmers for the mills he later owned. He leaves one daughter.

SOMERFIELD IS PLACED ON TRIAL

Famous Horseshoe Mining Company Swindle Being Investigated in Court.

THE DEFENDANT IS CARELESS

Larry Somerfield, Immaculately Dressed, Smiles Incredulously When Lawyer for the Prosecution Outlines the Case Against Him.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Nov. 5.

"Larry" Somerfield, who is credited by the police of a dozen cities with many shrewd financial tricks, was apparently the least concerned of the many at his trial today in the criminal branch of the supreme court. He was dressed immaculately and he smiled incredulously when the district attorney told how he led his victims to the bedside of an alleged ill man in the Astor house and induced him to buy stock in the Horseshoe Mining Company.

Even when George W. Effinger, a real estate dealer, who parted with $6,300 for worthless stock, took the stand and told in detail of his transactions, Somerfield seemed to see more humor than seriousness in the situation. Ewen H. Clark, who posed as an engineer, and has also been convicted, will be called, and two others of Somerfield's associates who are in Sing Sing may be placed upon the stand.

Mr. Nott, in his address to the jury, described the methods of Somerfield. He said that advertisements were inserted in the newspapers in 1902 stating that the Horseshoe Mining Company wished to buy its outstanding stock. He declared that Somerfield, posing as Frederick Herbert, told persons who were attracted by the advertisements that the company had made valuable finds and that the stock could be purchased from a former engineer who was ill at $8 or $9 a share and sold back to the company for an advance.

George W. Effinger of No. 244 West One Hundred and Twenty-Sixth street, was the first witness. He said he answered an advertisement on February 28, 1902, and met Somerfield, who gave his name as Frederick Herbert. The witness said he was introduced to a man named Qualey, who offered him $14 50 a share for Horseshoe stock. Then the "ill engineer" was introduced, who parted with stock for $6,300 which Qualey refused to buy at any price.

In answer to a question from one of the jurors, Effinger admitted that he had seen an expose of the Horseshoe mining concern in a New York newspaper at about the time he bought stock. The trial will go on tomorrow.

SHIPWRECKED MARINERS.

Ten Men Taken from Waterlogged Craft After Three Days Without Water.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The crew of the wrecked schooner John W. Linnell was brought to port today by the Italian ship D'Alli. The Linnell's crew of nine men and its captain had been lashed to the masts for 48 hours and when rescued had been without water for three days.

The schooner was swept by a gale on October 24 and was in a sinking condition when the D'Alli rescued the crew three days later. The crew endured the greatest of hardships but notwithstanding the privations they are not suffering any ill effects.

Mrs. Fiske in New Role.

"Mary of Magdala," in which Mrs. Fiske will appear at the Duquesne next week, will show this distinguished actress for the first time in a romantic, poetic role. Heretofore her work has been confined to the portrayal of modern characters of many varying types. The Magdalen of Mrs. Fiske is said to be profound character study, completely in accord with the spirit of the play and period.

When one of the boys tried to catch the horse Burnstein struck the animal, and the boys fired several shots after him, one of the bullets striking the seat of the wagon.

CONTROLLER REFUSES TO PAY CONTRACTOR

Construction of Westmoreland County Court House Is Again Held Up.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 5.—Controller John H. Brown has refused to make payments to William Miller & Sons, of Pittsburgh, for work done in the construction of the new court house, and it is said tonight that suit will be brought against the custodian of the county funds. Controller Brown gives as his reason for non-payment the fact that the contract entered into by the board of county commissioners with the Pittsburgh contractors was approved by only one of the judges of the common pleas court.

Dennis C. Ogden, attorney for the county commissioners, several weeks ago proposed that a stated case be taken to the superior court but the controller refused to accept it. The bill presented amounts to $30,000, the work done being preliminary to the actual work of construction. Until a solution to the tangle is given, it is not thought that the Pittsburgh contractors will begin the work of erecting the granite superstructure. The foundation walls are now ready for the main walls.

DUCK HUNTER DROWNED IN ALLEGHENY RIVER

FORD CITY, PA., Nov. 5.—John (Pud) Smith, of Garrett's Run, was drowned in the Allegheny river opposite the home of J. W. Glenn, the florist, this morning. Mr. Smith was duck hunting on the river in a boat and was accompanied by Squire U. S. Hobaugh. Smith had just fired a shot while standing on the back seat of the boat. The concussion of the shot made him take a step, overturning the boat and throwing both men into the water. Neither of them could swim and before assistance could arrive Smith sank. Hobaugh got hold of the boat and was saved. The body of Smith was found. He leaves a widow and two small children.

STEAMER H. K. BEDFORD SINKS IN OHIO RIVER

Passenger Boat Strikes a Rock During Dense Fog Near Sistersville, W. Va.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SISTERSVILLE, W. VA., Nov. 5.—The steamer H. K. Bedford sank last evening near the head of Mill creek riffle, four miles south of this city, while on her way to Wheeling. The boat wandered out of the channel during a dense fog and had a hole smashed in its hull through contact with a huge rock.

A gasoline launch from New Matamoras came to the relief of the distressed steamer and conveyed the passengers to the latter town, also the freight to the wharfboat here. The boat will be raised at once and taken to the docks at Parkersburg.

The Bedford is owned by Charles Frantz & Son of Marietta, and only recently resumed her trade after undergoing extensive repairs at White Bros.' docks, opposite this city.

BRIDEGROOM FAILED TO APPEAR AT ALTAR

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—A wedding which was to have been solemnized at the headquarters of the Volunteers of America last evening, did not come off, owing to the failure of the prospective bridegroom, Henry Woolwine, of Mingo Junction, to put in an appearance, and the guests went away disappointed. All day the expectant bride, Capt. Emma Kirkpatrick, waited. The tension was great and the home rolled by until 11 p. m., when she gave up hope of the groom's coming and collapsed.

ITALIANS DRIVEN OFF RAILWAY BY AMERICANS

Wounding of a Sub-Foreman Causes General Riot Among Workmen.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CANAL DOVER, O., Nov. 5.—An alleged attempt of an Italian to kill a sub-foreman of a street railway construction gang between here and New Philadelphia resulted in a riot today. The Italian had been discharged by the sub-foreman, whom he attacked with a pick, it is said. He swung a vicious blow at the foreman's head but the latter dodged. The point of the pick laid open his cheek.

Other Italians took up the fight of their fellow-countryman and quit work, demanding immediate payment of their wages. The Americans employed on the work took measures to protect the foreman, and a fight between the two factions resulted in the foreigners being put to flight.

The wounded man was brought to Canal Dover. They were employed in grading for the Canton & New Philadelphia Street Railway Company.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

AKRON, O., Nov. 5.—John E. McLaughlin, former assistant corporation counsel of New York city who was recently found guilty here of robbery, and one of his partners, Bert Macklin, were today sentenced to three years in the Ohio penitentiary by Judge Hayden. Shortly before the men were sentenced McLaughlin's father and sister arrived in the city and were present when Judge Hayden sentenced the men. Macklin's young wife was also present.

McLaughlin did everything in his power to keep the knowledge of his arrest from his parents. This afternoon McLaughlin's attorney asked for a temporary suspension of the sentence in order to enable him to file an affidavit alleging that McLaughlin was mentally incapacitated from the effects of drink and drugs at the time that the crime was committed. The request was allowed.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—John Cunning, of Edinburg, this county, whose neck was broken some weeks ago when he was thrown from his rig on a steep hill, during a runaway, is recovering and is able to walk about his home. His case is a marvel to the physicians and surgeons. He lay helpless and almost unconscious for some time before it was discovered that his spinal cord had been hurt. The patient's neck was then enclosed in a plaster cast, which remained in position until the fracture was healed. It is possible that he may entirely recover.

STATE'S CASE WEAKENED.

Defense in Farris Bribery Case Produces Strong Evidence of Misstatements by Witness.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., Nov. 5.—The evidence was completed today in the Farris bribery trial and arguments will be made tomorrow. The feature of the trial today was the reading of a letter sent by former Lieut.-Gov. John A. Lee to D. J. Kelley, where he said he had drawn out $7,000 from the bank on March 19, 1901 and sent it to Kelley. This was the date Lee said he drew $7,000 and paid it to Senator Farris.

Lee denied writing the letter, but the defense had it identified by Paying Teller Hetlish of the American Exchange bank, St. Louis, as being in Lee's writing. The defense introduced several witnesses in an endeavor to impeach Lee's testimony on a number of points. It is believed the defense today weakened the case made by the state yesterday.

CHAMBERLAIN'S POLICY MAY INJURE AMERICA

Chas. Emory Smith Sees a Great Sacrifice for Canada If It Is Adopted.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

FITCHBURG, MASS., Nov. 5.—Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the Fitchburg Merchants' association held at the Johnsonian tonight. Some 225 members of the association were present and their guests also included United States Senator George F. Hoar and former Governor John D. Long. Mr. Smith said in part:

Mr. Chamberlain's plan proposes to put a ring fence around Great Britain and then give a tariff preference to her colonies. We cannot be unmindful that this policy may have serious consequences for us if we keep our rightful trade weapons in our hands we need not fear the issue. Will Canada be content to sacrifice her own interests for the interests of English manufacturers? Will she consent to renounce her own right of independent action for the sake of an empty imperial connection?

We do not seek the annexation of Canada. We would not trammel the political freedom or aspirations of our neighbor. If the two countries which stretch along side by side for 3,000 miles shall ever come together it will be with free and full consent by the natural law of gravitation. But while politically distinct, the two American lands of kindred blood and law may well save close commercial relations. Why should they not in mutual interest, have an intelligent and statesman like system of broad reciprocal agreement?

We have drawn a circle around the Americas and made the Monroe doctrine its dominant law. No extension of European power within that circle will be allowed. It is but a deduction of that doctrine that no European war shall be suffered to wage itself within the American realm. Herein lies the true safeguard of Canada in consulting and protecting her own independent interests, free from imperial restraints and burdens, and it will be wise and well for her to understand and appreciate the broad American spirit.

YALE PLAYERS IN POOR PHYSICAL SHAPE

HARVARD PLANS BIG SURPRISE

Crimson Coaches Have Something Up Their Sleeves to Spring on Pennsy's Eleven.

YALE PLAYERS IN POOR SHAPE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—What promises to be one of the biggest surprises ever worked on a member of the big four seems likely to be sprung on Pennsylvania when Harvard lines up against the Quakers Saturday.

Nothing is known definitely about the coaches' plans, but it was stated on good authority that Reynolds' line would practically be made over before the lines up against the Quakers on Franklin field.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Bad knees and sore shoulders are causing worry for the Yale coaches and players. Scarcely a member of the varsity team is free from injury that would result in a lay-off were the season longer. Neither Hogan, Rockwell, Rorabacker, Metcalf or Gwsley are in condition to play. And their idleness of three days has continued today. Miller, who has been sidelined, weighing 175 pounds, was given a trial against Smith. Roraback is the steadiest man available, but is not as aggressive as is demanded by the coaches.

In secret practice today the back field was a substitute string except as to Bowman. The major part of the rushing was by Kinney. In the open half Bloomer was the only regular in play. All others were first substitutes. Bowman's failing off has caused the coaches to pay special attention to Farmer and Hoyt for fullback, although neither has Bowman's qualities. Both excel him in the rushing of the ball. Light work will be had tomorrow. The coaches now plan to play the Syracuse game with only substitutes after the first half.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The Tigers had a secret session of football practice today, being given light work in order to be in trim for the Lafayette eleven on Saturday. Few of the regular varsity men were called upon for more than 10 minutes' scrimmage work.

More attention was paid in preliminary drill today to defensive work. Dillon, Bradley and Reed was taken by Coach Holt to a short distance from the goal line and taught to block opposition plays by the throwing of their bodies, upon signal, beneath an imaginary line rushing. The practice was full of snap.

MOUNT POCONO, PA., Nov. 5.—The benefit of the rest among the mountains is evident in every member of the Quaker team. The practice today with new signals and the work was spirited.

The men were under the guidance of Coaches Williams, Hedges and Carnett, and they gave the men a hard hour's work.

The team will leave Mount Pocono on Friday at 1:37 p. m. and will reach West Philadelphia in the evening, where they will be met by the university band and escorted to the Aldine quarters.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The changes which were made on the Cornell varsity football eleven yesterday were productive of good results and today there was vast improvement all along the line. Halliday has been receiving attention at right tackle and takes his new position with the men now controlled by Coach Hollenback. Considerable time was given to the defense, in which Cornell is weak.

TO MEET THE MIDDIES.

Wash.-Jeff. Team Leaves Today for Annapolis.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The Washington and Jefferson team in the final practice before the Annapolis game went through dismal work. The field was wet and muddy and the damp weather extremely chilling. There was a lot of fumbling and the varsity had all they could do to score on the college team once in a while. Considerable disconcernment as a result of the week's practice, and much fear as to the result of the game with the cadets is expressed.

The team reached Annapolis and a rubber will leave for the south early tomorrow morning. The players, 20 in number, will go over the Baltimore & Ohio at 8 o'clock from Pittsburgh and probably play in Washington, Friday. Friday night, going to Annapolis on Saturday morning. It is believed that all the men will be able to enter the contest, although Sutter at center is still crippled with a bad shoulder. The locals will play about as follows in the game: Left end, Tipp; left tackle, McDivitt; left guard, McCleary; center, Sutter; right guard, Gingrich; right tackle, Hagerty; right end, Hart; quarterback, McDonough; left half back, Tanner; right half back, Beikles; full back, Prewitt. The officials for the game will be Arthur Poe of Princeton and H. N. Morice of the University of Pennsylvania.

INDIANAPOLIS ROOTERS IN PECULIAR POSITION

They Are Friends of Watkins, but Will Be Forced to Root Against His Team.

Secretary Locke of the Pittsburgh club yesterday received a letter from President Dreyfuss who has been sick in New York for some time, in which the club owner states that he is feeling somewhat improved but that he will not be able to come here before next week. On his arrival here Mr. Dreyfuss will at once prepare plans for improvements at Exposition park next season.

A peculiar condition in baseball has arisen in Indianapolis in which two former Pittsburgers, W. H. Watkins and Charley Rauschenbaugh are mixed up, and which local followers of the game will be interested in. A special from Indianapolis says: "President Charles Rauschaupt has taken the reins of the Indianapolis American Baseball association, and W. H. Watkins, who so long has been identified with baseball at Indianapolis, becomes the leader of a hostile clan. It will be a strong experience for the Indianapolis fan to root against Watty and his band next year and the anxious ones are already beginning to ask 'Will Watty capture any of the Indians before he goes to Minneapolis?'" President Rauschaupt of Indianapolis and President Watkins of Minneapolis have announced that the teams are transferred intact. The Indianapolis contracts and reserve list hold and the same conditions obtain at Minneapolis.

While Indianapolis had many great players last year the fans ask one big question: "What will Hogg do?" Hogg is credited with having said he could never play baseball for any one but Watkins and providing baseball rules do not settle the question Hoggie will be put to a test when the season opens both ways by loyalty to Watkins and loyalty to Indianapolis. So far as the Indianapolis club is concerned it has been placed in the best possible condition and with the men now controlled by President Rauschaupt and Manager Bill Phillips, talk of the Indians winning the 1904 pennant is not premature."

MEET AT PRINCETON.

Collegiate Gymnastic Championships to Be Decided.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The next International collegiate gymnastic championships will be held at Princeton on March 26, according to decision reached at the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Gymnastic association held here today.

Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania, New York university and Rutgers were represented.

An Amateur Hockey League.

The athletic association of the Ritter-Conley Manufacturing Company has decided to organize an amateur hockey team for the coming season. As amateur hockey leagues are scarce it is nearly impossible to enter a club in any of them. So the association intends to make the initiative and organize another league. A committee consisting of W. J. Prichard, R. S. Mennie and A. G. Overfield was appointed to have charge of this project. The committee will try to secure Duquesne Garden for the league to play its games. Any club having any interest in this project is requested to address Athletic Association, Ritter-Conley Manufacturing Company, 50 Water street. The Greenfield and Knoxville clubs are especially requested to communicate.

Will Finish Season.

It was announced last night that the W. P. P. team will finish its regular schedule and on Saturday will meet the Grove City college team at Grove City. The W. P. C. players will practice hard and strive to make a good showing.

JUDGE HIMES' VICTORY.

Defeated Reservation in an Exciting Race.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—A cold, rainy day and a sloppy track did not appear inviting for the race-goers today, but despite the adverse weather and track conditions a large crowd turned out to see the sport. The one feature of the afternoon was the race at a mile and a sixteenth, in which Reservation and Judge Himes mixed. There was but one other starter, Veneer, a 100 to 1 shot. As expected, it was a battle royal between these two great models, and Judge Himes sustained his great reputation by winning in a drive. No other contest during the meeting furnished as much excitement as this race. Reservation was a 9 to 10 favorite, while even money was offered on Judge Himes. The winner cut off Reservation at the 50-yard pole, but the judges did not see fit to disqualify him. Summary:

First race, 6 furlongs—Miss Go Lightly, 114, E. Davis, even, won; Fleuron, 114, Knight, 11 to 2, second; Satchel, 109, Dieterle, 11 to 2, third. Time, 1:17¾.

Geneva and Westminster Will Meet.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The Geneva and Westminster college football teams will meet next Saturday afternoon at New Wilmington, in the second game of the season. Westminster was to have played W. U. P. at Pittsburgh Saturday, but the latter has canceled the game. Geneva defeated Westminster 35 to 0 at Beaver Falls last month, but the Lawrence County collegians have since been greatly strengthened and expect to win Saturday.

Basket Ball Notes

Weitzel is showing up better than ever this year. His jumping at center is unusually fine. Capt. Leitnead makes the boys hustle in practice. They have to keep right at it the same as if playing a championship game.

The W. P. P. Freshmen opened the basketball season by defeating the Howe A. C. in the H. A. C. gymnasium. The game was very rough, 14 fouls being called on H. A. C., and 4 on W. P. P.

The Beaver basketball team is again in the field and would like to hear from all 14 or 15-year-old teams in Western Pennsylvania having balls. Address all challenges to S. Donlan, 1524 Colwell, Allegheny.

The basketball game scheduled for November 7 at Indiana between South Side and Indiana has been called off by Manager S. H. Lichtenberger. This game will be played at some future date. The game scheduled for November 21 at Odd Fellows hall will be the first meeting of these two crack organizations.

The Crescent A. C. of the South Side have organized for the season with the following players: Anderson and McCloskey, forwards; Curry and Booth, center; Miller and Davidson, guards. We would like to arrange games with all 13 or 14-year-old teams. Address Crescent A. C., 2424 Sarah street.

JACK O'BRIEN HOME.

Says Foreign Fighters Are a Lot of Dubs.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, the middleweight champion, returned from his second successful trip abroad on the steamship Majestic today. He won all the battles he engaged in while in England.

"I am to be matched with Tommy Ryan," said O'Brien, "for a battle which is to take place the end of next month. I understand all the Tipless clubs are to be in it. The foreign fighters are a lot of dubs, and you can say for me that the world's championship in the different classes will always be found in America."

Millionaire Turfman Makes a Bad Break.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—The stewards of the jockey club will likely impose a fine of $500 upon L. V. Bell, the millionaire turfman, for his attack upon an official of the jockey club, Hamilton Yeamans. Yeamans formally lodged charges against the former owner of Hermis last night, complaining of a "gross and vulgar assault within the precincts of the Queens County Jockey Club."

Whether a board of handicappers for which Mr. Bell contends comes to be a reality remains to be seen.

A Citizens Called Upon to Give Thanks Because Scarcity Which Afflicted Our Forefathers God Hath Turned to Plenty

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—Gov. Pennypacker today issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation:

In conformity with a custom so long regarded that it has become a law of conduct, and in expression of the will of the people, I, Samuel Whitaker Pennypacker, governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby set apart Thursday, November 26, as a day for giving thanks and praise to the Lord for His infinite goodness and mercy.

The dearth and scarcity which afflicted our forefathers He hath turned to plenty. He hath blessed the land so that it is fruitful and brings forth whatsoever is needful for the life of man. He hath saved us from the hands of our enemies and hath hitherto preserved us from all perils. He hath permitted no plague, pestilence or famine to destroy us. In good measure He hath delivered us from hatred, malice and uncharitableness. He hath so directed and prospered the consultations of our rulers that peace and happiness, truth and justice are established among us.

Let us then meet in our churches and places of worship, and offer up our prayers for the maintenance of our health and prosperity and the increase of our virtue and piety under His guidance and care. And let us not forget to comfort the sick, to clothe the naked and to feed those who are in hunger and want.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the state at the city of Harrisburg, this fifth day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and three, and of the commonwealth the one hundred and twenty-eighth.

(Signed.)

SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER.

Frank M. Fuller, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

MANY FAKE FIGHTS.

Philadelphians Are Being Made Victims by Managers Who Need the Cash.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—As is usually the case each year after a few weeks of the boxing season has passed, it begins to look as though there is to be another wrangling out of the promoting clubs. Already one club has thrown up the sponge.

Already false colors have been worked off at some clubs on unsuspecting patrons of boxing. For awhile the men behind the schemes get away with them, but the sports eventually tumbled to the racket and in consequence the attendance at the offer of both sects of the shows have proved financial failures.

First of all, the Fitzsimmons-Con Coughlin affair will always be a black mark which will not very easily be erased from the memory of followers of fighting. This was a miserable affair, and the managers of the club at which it was held knew that poor Coughlin could not make the faintest showing with the former world's champion. Coughlin, a clumsy clownish fellow, had tried to make his mark as a boxer ten years ago, and comparative lightweights knocked him out. Little had been heard of him until the club, aided by one Sam Fitzpatrick, tried to work him off on the Philadelphia public, and a more miserable affair was never witnessed in this city. The only person heard from the club to date is that Fitzpatrick "is a good fellow and needed the money."

Following this came the Jack McCormick-Jack Munroe farce, which to date, is unexplained, but like everything else will come out in the pugilistic wash. Last Monday Kid Carter, who is extremely popular with local ring followers, was advertised to go on night, once Fred Cooley, but at the last minute Cyclone Kelly was substituted. Two of the managers of the club said Carter was suffering from a broken knuckle, but the referee, who knew the fair, was not a bit backward in telling the handful of spectators in the arena the real reason. The house was too small to pay Carter for the trouble of mending his ring armor. Friday night last witnessed the passing of the Pastime club and a fight was narrowly averted. The spectators were treated to a bout between Peter Jackson and Cyclone Kelly, which was ordered on the fake order, and after boxing five rounds, a spectator threw a bottle into the ring. The new wrinkle to see the so-called contest, was in no pleasant taste of mind.

Carnegie Plant Will Turn It Out—Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh Secures Contract to Equip Large English Hotel With Bathtubs.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald square, NEW YORK, Nov. 6.

The United States Steel Corporation has just taken another contract for steel rails to be shipped to the far east. As exclusively mentioned in The Gazette at the time of the award, the Carnegie Steel Company last week secured a contract for about 5,000 tons of rails for use in the construction of the Fusan-Chemulpo railroad, Korea, the price at New York being $28.50. The contract now placed calls for 4,000 tons of 60-pound rails for the Hanshin Railway, Japan. The price is practically the same as for the Korean contract. Deliveries are to be made in December and January. The Carnegie plant will also turn out 600 tons of bridge material for the same Japanese road.

The Steel Corporation is expected to close some more rail orders for the far east within the next few days. The United States Steel Products Company, which handles the export business of the corporation, is figuring on 6,000 tons for the Seoul-Fusan road and 4,000 tons for the extension of the Nippon Railway system.

The biggest hotel in Great Britain, which is being completed by the Midland Railway Company at Manchester, is to be equipped throughout with Pittsburgh-made bath tubs. The manager, according to advices just to hand, was extremely anxious as to the fittings of the hotel and was determined that he would get the best obtainable. The merits of the Pittsburgh tubs having been extolled, he sampled one or two, with the result that they have been adopted throughout the hotel. The test was not only their appearance, but their capacity of resisting shock. The contract was taken by the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company of Pittsburg.

William B. Scaife & Sons Company of Pittsburgh is after Mexican contracts for softening and purifying water plants. C. W. Milan of Mexico City has been appointed representative of the company in the southern republic.

The City of London Electric Lighting Company has awarded a contract to the Westinghouse interests for a direct-current generator of 1,500 kilowatts capacity, operating at a pressure of 470 to 700 volts. The machine will be equipped with a commutator of unusual size. The external diameter of the commutator will be 10 feet and the circumference will contain 900 segments of hard drawn copper. The new machine will be run in connection with nine of similar size already installed.

The bridge shops of the Eastern Steel Company of Pottsville, Pa., have just completed a large contract for structural material to be utilized in the construction of the Havana docks.

SOCIETY

THE CHARMING old home of Mrs. Otto Heeren in Center avenue was the scene of a daughter's wedding last evening, when Miss Nelle Marie Heeren became the bride of Alton Brown, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Brown of Edgewood. The old house, surrounded by spacious lawns and in the summer time hidden from the avenue by the beautiful trees which stand about it, speaks of the hospitality of the war-time days in the early part of the second half of the nineteenth century. The large rooms were handsomely decorated last evening for the wedding, which was pretty conducted at 7 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Richard S. Holmes, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian church, officiating.

The bride has been a popular teacher in the Brushton schools. Mr. Orwig is a young business man, connected with the Fort Pitt Supply Company, and is known also in musical circles. After an extended wedding trip the young couple will be at home at 4716 Tioga street, on days after December 7.

Brunner—Kochre.

The wedding of Miss Selma M. Brunner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Brunner of Millvale, and John Kochre of Sharpsburg, which took place at the home of the bride's parents yesterday evening, was a very pretty affair. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock, the bridal party standing before a bank of palms, ferns and pink and white carnations. The Rev. Mr. Kuhn of the German Lutheran church of Sharpsburg officiated.

Brides wore crepe de chine over white silk trimmed with bertha of duchesse point lace and pearls, and carried bouquets of roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Minett C. Brunner, a sister of the bride, who wore a gown of white mist over pink silk, and carried pink chrysanthemums, and Miss Bertha Heinz of Sharpsburg, who wore point d'sprit over white silk and carried white chrysanthemums. Charles Schaerr of Allegheny and Phillip Ruprecht of Sharpsburg were ushers.

After the ceremony supper was served followed by a reception. Covers were laid for forty guests, most of whom were from Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Sharpsburg. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Heinz of Pittsburgh, Frederick Heinz of Sharpsburg, Sebastian Mueller of Pittsburgh, and C. F. Klopfer and Miss Clara Klopfer, of Perrysville, the grandfather and aunt, respectively, of the bride. Late in the evening the couple left for a two weeks' trip in the east. On their return about the first of December they will be at home at No. 1624 Middle street, Sharpsburg.

Williams—Kitch.

One of the lasting social events of the season in Sharon was the marriage yesterday of Miss Susan Adele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Williams, to Walter W. Kitch of Sharpsville. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride at 1 o'clock in the presence of 125 guests, many of them being from Pittsburgh, New Castle and other nearby cities. There were no attendants. The bride wore a gown of white Persian lawn. The Rev. Mr. Richards of the Sharpsville Universalist church officiated. The residence was handsomely decorated. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. Mrs. Kitch is one of Sharon's best known young women, and a leader in the younger society circles. Mr. and Mrs. Kitch will reside in Sharpsville.

Cartwright—Cuthbert.

A wedding of interest took place last evening when Frances Irene, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. L. E. Cartwright, and the Rev. Richard Bruce Cuthbert, pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church of Allegheny, were married in the First Methodist Episcopal church of Scottdale, of which the bride's father is the pastor. It was the first wedding ceremony to be performed in the new church, which was decorated with palms and chrysanthemums. More than 700 guests were present, a number from Pittsburgh and Allegheny. Alfred Martin, organist of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, presided at the organ. The bride's father performed the marriage ceremony assisted by the Rev. J. F. Murray, D. D., presiding elder of the McKeesport district of the Pittsburgh Methodist Episcopal conference.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white crepe meteor trimmed with lace and a veil fastened with catrich plumes. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret E. Barnhart, Miss Mina G. Wiley and Miss Minta C. Boyd of Scottdale, and Miss Mary Shrum of Irwin. The bridesmaids wore white French mulle over white taffetta and carried maidenhair ferns and chrysanthemums. Miss Mildren L. Cartwright, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and John C. Cuthbert of Pittsburgh was best man. The ushers were R. B. Cuthbert and Edward Flaccus of Pittsburgh, Edward Swank of Somerset and R. Eugene Cartwright of Scottdale.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents at which about 100 guests were present. After the wedding supper the young couple left for a trip to the great lakes. Elliott, tenor, will sing Grieg's "Ich Liebe Dich." Sullivan's "Orpheus and His Lute," a very old song but new to Pittsburgh, and also a serenade by Ewing Thomas. "Love's Rhapsody," by Bartlett, will be sung by Miss Katherine Ellis with 'cello obligato by Howard J. White. Mrs. William J. Forstrom will sing "Beloved, It Is Morn," by Florence Aylward. Mrs. J. P. Patton will sing "Chanson del Adieu," by Foleth, and "Summer Rain," by Charles Willeby. Valmore's Handel's "Where'er ye Walk" and "A Dervish Vigil," will be sung by Richard S. Knotts, Jr., with Howard J. White will to the instrumentalist and will contribute two 'cello solos.

The bridegroom is an electrician at East Pittsburgh.

Speaking of art, he said: "The superior wealth of Pittsburgh, as indeed almost every country in the world the last two years has raised the prices of the best work of European masters. More exporting of high-class paintings have been made into other lands for some time. Many moderate-priced paintings have been brought to this country during the last few months." Mr. Ball will place a large collection in a Wood street store for exhibition.

The state department at Harrisburg yesterday granted a charter to the Colonial Hotel Company of Pittsburgh, which is the official passing of the old Victoria hotel, Sixth street. Several Pittsburghers have identified themselves with a party of southern promoters, with the result that the North Alabama Oil and Gas Company has been chartered at Harrisburg. The headquarters of the company will be in this city. It proposes developing a tract of land for oil.

Among the Clubs

THE PROGRAM is very informal and emphasis is laid on the social hour following the meetings of the Western Pennsylvania committee of the Colonial Dames, which met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. T. Wallace, in Maple Heights, in the East End. There was a pretty large attendance of the dames in Pittsburgh, nearly all having returned from their summer journeyings and not beguiled into attending the Founder's day exercises. Several reports were made, the treasurer reporting the funds in the treasury. Mrs. A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania society of the Colonial Dames of America, sent a request that the local dames take up some form of patriotic work, but just what this will be was left undecided at the meeting yesterday. At the next meeting, in January, definite action will be taken, in order that the local committee may report some special work accomplished this season.

After the business was concluded Mrs. Wallace read a paper, giving a history of some of the men of the colonial period through whom the ladies of the present day claim eligibility to membership in the society of Colonial Dames. Prominent among them was Dr. John Rodman, who was born in 1679 and for 18 years was king's counsel in New York. Another ancestor whom Mrs. Thomas Willett, also king's counsel, who was born in 1545. Many of the incidents which Mrs. Wallace had gathered together of the life and the times of these men was given to the interested women at the meeting.

Tea was served after the conclusion of the paper, and in the service used was much old silver treasured by the hostess which has been handed down from the colonial and revolutionary days.

George Junior Republic Next Spring.

The juvenile court committee at its meeting yesterday morning took quite decisive steps toward the establishment of a George Junior Republic in or near Pittsburgh. The women of the committee believe that in such an institution lies the solution of the problem presented in the juvenile court cases of the children, and the first step of them is the direction of good citizenship. The committee will appoint a representative to visit the George Junior Republic established by Henry George in the state of New York, study its methods as practiced there and the results secured. Upon this report the local committee will base its plan, which will be a modification of the republican scheme, with certain new features especially adapted to this section of Pennsylvania. After January 1 this definite plan of action will be decided upon. Already several locations are under consideration, and though the scheme is a large one and will require a good deal of money, the success which the women have met with in the establishment of the juvenile court has emboldened them to undertake the proposition of founding an institution where the children will be trained in good citizenship during the period of their probationship.

At the meeting yesterday a plea was made for more clothing, and especially shoes for the girls and boys who are held in the rooms of the juvenile court. A great deal of clothing has been received, but as everything the children wear is taken off them when they are received in the rooms, and after a term in the court is given them clean clothing is given them, the supply must be almost exhaustless. The Pittsburgh women of the Needlework guild will contribute garments to all cases involving the children. Several sewing societies have promised to make garments for the children, but the immediate needs are very urgent and any contributions of clothing for girls and boys ranging from 8 years of age to 15. Any contributions may be sent to Warren Lewis in the detention rooms in the hall.

Miss Mary Conley, who has for monthly report as probation officer, Mrs. Richard H. Quay, the chairman, is away from home, and as Mrs. E. E. Cleeck, the vice chairman, is unable to preside, Miss M. P. Speer occupied the presiding officer's chair at yesterday's meeting.

VIRGIN ALLEY VIEWERS REPORT

Net Amount of Damages for North Side Property Owners Is $808,973.35.

BURGLARS ROB BOARDERS

Wilkinsburg Board of Trade Restrained from Erecting Pest House in Wilkins Township—Charles W. Tucker Sued for Breach of Promise.

The report of the board of viewers for the widening of Virgin alley from Liberty avenue to Smithfield street has been filed in common pleas court No. 1 and confirmed nisi. The gross damages to property owners on the north side are $1,-808,478.86, with a set-off of $956,302.55 for benefits assessed, leaving the net amount $808,973.31. Benefits assessed on the south side aggregate $785,498. The amount assessed against the city is $23,678.81. The report includes a number of exceptions filed with the viewers, but no waivers of right to appeal. The court allows 30 days for the filing of appeals and exceptions to the report. The former will demand a jury trial and the latter are acted upon by the court before confirming the report finally.

Ilija Stiponak and his wife, Militza Stiponak, were acquitted of seven counts of larceny by bailee in criminal court. The couple conducted a boarding house on the South Side and had all foreigners for boarders. Seven of the boarders gave Mrs. Stiponak sums of money ranging from $13 to $100 for her to hold for safe keeping. The defendants claim the house was burglarized and the money, amounting to $600, stolen, and they could not replace it. The prosecutors said the house was not robbed, but that Stiponak and his wife appropriated the money.

Common pleas court No. 1 granted a preliminary injunction against the borough of Wilkinsburg and the board of health, restraining them from erecting a pest house or hospital in Wilkins township. The proceedings were instituted by George Bayer, Ellen J. Duffy, Cornelius A. Duff, Ellen Cain and G. J. Brown against the borough and W. F. Stephens, M. D., James Balph, J. M. McNall, M. D., W. J. Elkins and John S. B. Mercer, members of the board of health.

The bill sets forth that the defendants were erecting a hospital for contagious diseases on a two-acre plot fronting on the Pittsburgh and Greensburg turnpike, in the midst of a coal mining settlement, where 1,000 people are domiciled. The authority of the municipality to erect a building outside of the city limits is denied by the petitioners.

Miss O'Laughlin has entered a $10,000 damage suit against Charles W. Tucker, alleging breach of promise to marry. A capias was issued for the defendant's arrest. The statement avers that about April 18, 1902, the defendant agreed to marry the plaintiff and contemplating the event, the two left McKeesport for Steubenville, O., where the ceremony was to be performed. At the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad depot in Pittsburgh the lady says she was informed by Tucker that there was no train that night and as a result they became guests of a Pittsburgh hotel for the night. The next morning he left the city and failed to return to her, necessitating her return to McKeesport. She says he has since failed to keep his agreement.

PLATT CASE ARGUED BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Magee Estate Makes Final Effort to Secure More Money for Property.

The supreme court yesterday heard arguments in cases involving the settlement of estates. The most noted case in the list was that of James W. Platt against the executors of the estate of the late C. L. Magee and the trustees of the Elizabeth Steel Magee hospital, involving the ownership of the property on Fifth avenue occupied by Platt. The latter claims a parol agreement with Mr. Magee for the sale of the property to him at the sum it cost Mr. Magee. In common pleas No. 2 the court sustained this position, and the question before the supreme court is purely on this parol contract.

The sale of the Smith block, at Sixth street and Liberty avenue, came up on the appeal of Anna H. Lyon and Martha Mehaffey from the orphans court, which authorized a private sale of the property. The questions argued were whether or not the sale would be for the best interest of the parties and as to the power of the court to order a sale against the objections of some of the life tenants in common. The property was devised under the will of Matthew Smith to his children, the appellants have a life interest through their brother, the late Dr. Zantzinger Smith.

The case of John Dougherty vs. John G. Wellinger, appellant, involved the construction of the will of Joshua T. Sartnolle. The question of fee simple or life estate enters into the appeal of William Kraus in the estate of Jacob M. Kraus. The case of Brown vs. Brown, concerning the estate of the late John P. Brown, who died from the effects of a boiler explosion in 1901. Two of them concerned a policy of insurance in the Ancient Order United Workmen. It made Mattie Brown, his wife, the beneficiary. Subsequently Brown was divorced and remarried, and the wife by the marriage and her children claimed the proceeds. The question before the supreme court is as to whether the widow or the divorced wife is entitled to the funds. The other cases involves the payment of an accident insurance policy. The Pennsylvania Casualty Company of Scranton and issued a policy to Brown. The premium was due on December 31, 1901, but was not paid. On December 21 Brown met the accident where Brown was injured, a nephew paid the premium. The company refused to renew the policy and was sustained by the lower court.

The case of Henry Trauter, appellant, vs. T. M. and W. R. Porter, is an action over a subscription to the stock of the Reliance Life Insurance Company.

The suit of Elizabeth McGary and others, appellants, vs. John J. McDermott, is an action over the title of a piece of property in Third avenue.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

Alice Newman has entered a libel in divorce against William Newman, charging cruelty.

A petition was filed by citizens of the town of Wells asking that it be incorporated as the borough of Wells.

James Johnston, a railroad conductor, was appointed a tipstaff in criminal court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Tipstaff William Fowler.

The will of the late George Everett Chester, late of Center avenue, has been filed. He leaves $100,000 to his wife, Mrs. Ida Chester, who is appointed executrix, to serve without giving bond.

George E. Gerhold, administrator of the estate of William Gerhold, filed his final account, charging himself with $60,881.77, and showing a balance for distribution of $50,-906.40.

George Wesley Rinker filed a petition in bankruptcy for himself and as a co-partner in the Excelsior Poultry & Meat Company, of Pittsburgh. His liabilities are given as $1,460, and his assets as $350.

Executions were issued as follows: The Safe Deposit & Trust Company, receiver, for use vs. Bernhard Schroers, et al., $5,169.92; the Pittsburgh-Williamsport Coal Company vs. A. W. Burkholder & Co., $57.65; Joseph Magerl vs. Herman Strasser, $218.50; City Deposit bank vs. James M. Chadwick, $355.55.

The commissioner's report in the divorce suit of Arthur Bailey, of Willow street, against his wife, Anna Estep, was filed. The couple were married in Altoona and came to Pittsburgh to live. It is said she left him on April 22, 1901, and went back to Altoona to live, taking their little daughter with her. He visited her, but she would not return to Pittsburgh. A letter attached to the testimony purporting to have come from Mrs. Estep, asked Estep if he was going to get a divorce and to let her know if he was not, so she could begin proceedings.

TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK.

Monongahela Water Company Needs Money to Give Better Service.

In order to give a better water supply to the South Side, the Monongahela Water Company has asked its stockholders to vote for an increase in capital stock from $2,500,000 to $2,750,000. A meeting has been called for this purpose on Tuesday, November 17, 1903, at which the stock was increased by $200,000.

The proposed increase will be used in bettering the plant of the company, for laying mains, purchasing boilers, and erecting new tanks on the higher elevations of the South Side. The last increase was taken by the stockholders at par. The stock pays a dividend of 8 per cent.

BEDFORD SCHOOL NOT DANGEROUS

Committee Makes Report to Central Board After an Inspection.

IMPROVEMENTS SUGGESTED

High School Sites Near Schenley Park Will Be Visited Monday Afternoon. Thirty-One Teachers Raised to Grade of Masters With Small Increased Salary.

To put in good shape the Central High School building in Bedford avenue, which has been criticised as being faulty, a special sub-committee appointed by the high school committee recommended last night in a report to the latter body that $42,200 be spent. The building was declared to be structurally in fair shape. The committee of the Central Board of Education at a meeting at the same time in the Fifth avenue school reported that several sites suitable for a high school had been visited. John O'Toole, chairman of the committee, said that he was not prepared to give locations or prices and advised that the Board of Education meet with the committee at the Schenley Hotel at 2:30 o'clock Monday, when the sites will be visited. This will be done.

The committee on the Bedford avenue school trouble was assisted in its work by Edward Stotz, an architect. The recommendations of the committee in substance were: Repairs to sash and windows, $3,000; cracked plaster to be covered with sheet metal, $3,500; repainting interior walls $2,000; repairs to heating apparatus, new boilers, etc., $7,700. The sanitary fixtures were declared antiquated, and the suggestion was made that a new building be erected the same height as the old, to accommodate the toilet rooms. Such a building attached to the main corridors of the old one would cost $13,500; detached it would cost $11,-500. If this were done the three toilet rooms in the old building could be made into class rooms. The architect recommended a gravity system for ventilation rather than a mechanical one. The committee decided to send the report to the Central board.

The question of masters and teachers was also discussed. Dr. McKelvey wanted the matter laid over, and Mr. Slensinger objected, saying the matter had hung fire long enough. The seat of the trouble is in the pay. The maximum salary of a teacher and the minimum salary of a master are the same—$1,000 a year, but a master is advanced $100 a year until the maximum of $1,500 is reached. Mr. McIlroy opposed making any more masters.

Finally a motion was adopted classifying as masters all teachers of two year's experience in the city high school. This changes 31 teachers to masters. It does not affect any salaries at present, as the prevailing rate runs for this year and if the schedule is unchanged, it will affect but two next year. In the year following, however, it will bring an increase of $100 to each of the 31 teachers advanced.

NEAL'S DEATH A MYSTERY.

Coroner Is Investigating, and in the Meantime One Man Is Held by the Police.

George H. Neal is dead at his home, No. 48 East Robinson street, Allegheny, and Coroner Jesse M McCleary will hold an inquest to decide the cause of the man's demise. In the meantime the Allegheny police are holding John W. Day, who is supposed to know something of Neal's death.

The man died shortly after midnight yesterday morning. According to his wife, he had gone home under the influence of liquor and complained of pains in his head. Dr. McCarter was called and administered an injection to relieve the pain. He also dressed a wound Neal had in his wrist. Neal never regained consciousness.

It is the opinion of Deputy Coroner James P. Loughrey and the Allegheny police that Neal died of a fractured skull. He was subject to fits, it is said, and had fallen in the street. Day was with him, and for this reason is held.

WANT THE BIG MEETING.

Committee Working to Bring National Republican Convention Here.

The committee of councils having under consideration the movement to secure for this city the next national Republican convention met and organized yesterday in the city clerk's office. R. H. Douglass was elected chairman, C. S. Crawford vice chairman and City Clerk E. W. Wainwright secretary. On motion of Mr. Wainwright, a committee on arrangements was appointed, and Mr. Douglass named Mr. Wainwright, as chairman, Mr. Leslie and Mr. Stevenson.

On motion of Mr. Crawford, a committee on conference was also appointed, Mr. Crawford being made chairman, with Mr. Reitz and Mr. Costello. This committee will confer with the chamber of commerce and the various boards of trade located throughout the city to further the movement. The committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

A TEST EXPERIMENT.

Peculiar Power Possessed by a New Medicine.

Of new discoveries there is no end, but one of the most recent, most remarkable and one which will prove invaluable to thousands of people, is a discovery which it is believed will take the place of all other remedies for the cure of those stubborn and obstinate diseases, dyspepsia and stomach troubles. This discovery is not a loudly advertised, secret patent medicine, but is a scientific combination of wholesome, perfectly harmless vegetable essences, fruit salts, pure pepsin and bismuth.

These remedies are combined in lozenge form, pleasant to take, and will preserve their good qualities indefinitely, where as all liquid medicines rapidly lose whatever good qualities they may have had as soon as uncorked and exposed to the air.

This preparation is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and it is claimed that one of these tablets or lozenges will digest from 800 to 3,000 times its own weight of meat, eggs and other wholesome food. And this claim has been proven by actual experiments in the following manner: A hard boiled egg cut into small pieces was placed in a bottle containing warm water heated to 98 degrees (or blood heat); one of these tablets was then placed in the bottle and the proper temperature maintained for three hours and a half, at the end of which time the egg was as completely digested as it would have been in a healthy stomach. This experiment was undertaken to demonstrate that what it would do in the bottle it would also do in the stomach, hence its unquestionable value in the cure of dyspepsia and weak digestion. Very few people are free from some form of indigestion but scarcely two people will have the same symptoms. Some will suffer most from distress after eating, bloating from gas in the stomach and bowels, others have acid dyspepsia or heartburn, others palpitation or be headaches, sleeplessness, faints in the forenoon under shoulder blades, extreme nervousness, as in nervous dyspepsia, but the all have the same cause, failure to properly digest what is eaten. The stomach must have rest and assistance and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets give it both, by digesting the food for it and in a short time it is restored to its normal action and vigor. At the same time the tablets are so harmless that a child can take them with benefit. This new preparation has already made many astonishing cures, as for instance, the following:

"After using only one package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets I have received such great and unexpected benefit that I wish to express my sincere gratitude. In fact, it has been six months since I took the package and I have not had one particle of distress or difficulty since. And all this in the face of the fact that the best doctors I have consulted told me I could never cure my Dyspepsia and absolutely incurable as I had suffered 25 years. I have distributed a half dozen packages among my friends here who are very anxious to try this remedy."

MRS. SARAH A. SKEEL,
Lynville, Jasper Co., Mo.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents for full-sized packages. A little book on Stomach Diseases mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

THE U. S. STEEL STOCKS MAKE NEW LOW RECORDS

Trade Depression the Ostensible Cause of the Weakness—Railroads Sympathized With the Decline—Local Stocks All Lower.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

An avalanche of United States Steel stocks poured in upon the eastern stock market yesterday, the liquidation becoming very urgent during the latter part of the session. The effect was to force prices to the lowest level ever quoted. The ostensible cause of the weakness was the acknowledged depression in the iron and steel trade. It was reported that a further cut of from 25 to 50 cents a ton had been made in northern pig iron, and it was known that members of the steel rail pool were in session considering the maintenance of the price of $28 a ton for rails. Influential consumers were represented as urging a reduction to $26 a ton, while the pool was said to be opposing any change for the reason that conditions did not warrant any change, and also for the reason that if steel rails were cut it would necessitate a reduction all along the line of finished products. It was known that the H. C. Frick Company had issued a circular to the trade stating that it was again in a position to offer foundry coke on the basis of $2.65 per net ton of 2,000 pounds, f. o. b. cars at ovens. It was recalled that last January the Frick company withdrew as a seller of foundry coke, leaving the trade to supply its wants as best it could from independent coke producers. Reading between the lines of the announcement the conclusion was reached that the Frick company was now in the market as a seller because the needs of the United States Steel Corporation were insufficient to absorb the supply. Altogether, Wall street took a very pessimistic view of the iron and steel trade, and was disposed to gauge general trade conditions by this accepted barometer. The speculative element, however, did not hesitate to aggravate the situation by the use of well-tried bearish tactics. The January dividend on 25,000 shares of Steel common was offered at 25 cents, and one transaction was reported as low as 20 cents, the best subsequent bid being 18 cents. The dividend declared last month, and which is not yet payable, is 50 cents a share. It was formerly $1 a share quarterly. Hardly any one is now optimistic enough to look forward to a continuation of dividends on the common stock after this year. The reduction last month is generally believed to have been the result of a compromise between directors who desired to pay the full rate and other directors who thought the dividend should be passed entirely upon the common stock. In addition to offering the next dividend at a reduced rate, an effort was made to bring in politics as a factor, and there was some discussion as to the impending presidential campaign and its bearing upon the future of the market.

The decline in Steel preferred began right at the opening, the initial sales being within a range of 87 and 87½, the latter being ½ below the closing bid Wednesday night. There was hardly any interruption in the subsequent decline, and finally just before the close the price was forced down to 84½, the close being at 84¾ bid. On Wednesday the stock sold as high as 89¾, so that yesterday's net loss was unusually severe. The common stock opened ¼ lower at 12⅝, which proved to be the highest of the day, and late in the session sold off to 10⅞, the lowest ever quoted. The new bonds held comparatively steady, declining from 67½ at the opening to 66⅞ at the close. Republic Iron and Steel also made new low records, the common declining to 6¾ and the preferred to 48⅝. The latter subsequently rallied a point, but closed at 46. Tennessee Coal and Iron sold below 28 and Pressed Steel Car declined to 27. Amalgamated Copper was weak, opening at 83¼ and selling off to 39⅝.

The railway list held its own during the early part of the day, but the extreme weakness in the industrials had its effect. All were equally depressed, and the declines were in the face of some magnificent earnings for the last week in October. Missouri Pacific, which reported an increase of $117,000 in gross earnings for the fourth week in October, declined from 91¼ to 89. Wabash sold below 32, and St. Paul declined from 133½ to 131½. Pennsylvania was quoted ex-dividend of 3 per cent and opened unchanged at 117⅜, but sold off to 115⅝. New York Central declined 1½ per cent to 117, being effected probably by the announcement that the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern directors had authorized an issue of $50,000,000 4 per cent 25-year bonds, the proceeds of which will presumably be used in liquidating the obligations incurred during the year in purchasing Reading and Hocking Valley stocks. Atchison was quoted ex-dividend of 2 per cent and held quite steady until late in the afternoon, when it sold off with the rest of the list. The tractions were weak and lower. The lowest prices of the day were made in the final dealings and the market closed heavy. The total sales were slightly in excess of 500,000 shares.

There was nothing new in the money market, except a further decline in sterling exchange rates. There were reports that the actual amount of gold engaged in Europe for shipment hither was larger than has been reported, but there were no official figures on this point. The Bank of England did not change its minimum rate of discount, but its weekly statement made an unfavorable showing. There was an increase of $5,800,000 in loans, a decrease of more than $6,000,000 in reserve, and the latter now stands at 47.30 per cent, as compared with 49.60 per cent a week ago. The weekly statement of the Bank of France showed a loss of a little more than $3,000,000 in gold and a decrease in bills discounted of about $4,400,000.

There was a further increase in the volume of trading on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday, but it was at the expense of values, closing prices showing net declines all along the line. The largest dealings were in United States Steel, nearly 1,000 shares of the common changing hands at 12½ to 11½. The preferred declined to 55. Crucible Steel common declined to 4 and the preferred to 81, the latter representing a loss of ¾ per cent. National Fire Proofing common broke to 11¼ and the preferred to 24. Manufacturers Light and Heat closed 1½ lower at 25. A small lot of River Coal preferred sold at 28, an advance of ½ over the last previous sale, but the Pittsburgh Coal issues were both lower, the common declining to 18⅝ and the preferred losing 1½ per cent, selling down to 60¼ and closing at 60½. Westinghouse Electric declined $1 a share to 67 and closed at that price bid. A small lot of the first preferred sold at 88½, which was an advance of 6¼ over the last previous sale. The rest of the stock list was neglected. There was a sale of 10 shares of Pittsburgh Brewing 6s at 109, an advance of ¼ per cent, and the first bond transaction of the week. The whole local market was entirely under the influence of the weakness in the east.

Republic Steel made a new low record.

In the late dealings many standard railroad stocks were a point or more below Wednesday.

Total sales for day 517,900 shares of stock.

The bond market was easy, but dealings were dull. Total sales (par value) $2,047,000.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The weakness in the Steel stocks dominated the market yesterday, but it is a question whether the decline was entirely due to trade depression or whether the latter was due to the weakness in the stock market. Many rumors were current regarding the stability of various pools in the trade, and there was the usual discussion as to the effect upon prices of a dissolution of the various pools. The whole industry is much better organized now than it was in 1896-8, when there was a general financial and trade awakening, and manufacturers all pursued an independent policy. It was on December 12, 1896, that a practical dissolution of the billet pool occurred, and members were allowed to make their own prices. The average of the latter for 1897 was about $15, but two years later the price had more than doubled. It was on February 9, 1897, that the steel rail pool dissolved, and the Carnegie Company immediately cut prices from $25 a ton to $17, and some sales were made as low as $13. The average prices at Pennsylvania mills during 1898 was $17.02, but the following year there was a rise to $28.12 and $29.76 to $32.29. As stated, the iron and steel industry is much better organized today than it was in 1896-1898, and general financial and commercial conditions are infinitely more favorable. The administration is not worried about the maintenance of the gold reserve, nor about a deficit in public revenues. We are importing gold instead of exporting it, and the quality of our currency is not in question. Buyers of iron and steel are governed by exactly the same impulses as govern buyers of stocks and bonds. On a declining market the public will not buy; on an advancing market it seeks to anticipate future wants and buys prodigiously. Just now iron and steel prices are declining and consumers are pursuing a hand-to-mouth policy, the result being a cleaning up of surplus stocks. Let the turn come and consumers will pay more than they need, fearing a further advance.

Regarding the chartering of four corporations at Salisbury, N. C., with an aggregate capital of $7,750,000, all practically owned by the Whitney Company, composed of Pittsburgh capitalists, a special dispatch to the Manufacturers Record from Salisbury says: The Yadkin Mines Consolidated Company, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, controls the Russell and three or four other contiguous mines in Montgomery county. The Yadkin Power Company, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, owns 3,000 acres of land near the Narrows of the Yadkin to be utilized as a site for a town in close proximity to the power. The Yadkin Valley River Electric Power Company, with a capital stock of $5,000,000, will develop 40,000 horsepower at the Narrows, where the river falls 150 feet in the space of a mile. The Piedmont and Northern Railway Company, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, owns a circuit of 26,000 horsepower on the Stanly county side, and the power will be used for factories at that point and Albemarle, Concord, Salisbury, Kannapolis, Charlotte, Lexington and Greensboro. The Yadkin and Virginia Copper and Land Company, with a capital stock of $750,000, owns land in Stanly and Granville county, N. C., and in Halifax county, Va. Work on the dam at the Narrows for the big power plant will begin in the spring, and a canal in connection with that will be excavated through forty miles of the surrounding country. The Whitney Company, with these auxiliary corporations, has embarked upon one of the greatest gold mining, milling and electrical power development in the south today.

Local opinion is practically unanimous that the January dividend on United States Steel common will be suspended entirely.

The decline in local stocks yesterday was influenced by the decline in the east, and for once Wall street did not credit the selling of the Steel stocks to Pittsburgh, nor suggest that there was any fresh trouble here. So far as could be learned the heaviest selling of United States Steel came from Chicago houses, although it is estimated that about 25,000 shares of the preferred was sold for account of London.

The buying power is still so limited that any pressure to sell results in sharp declines. This was demonstrated by the loss of 1⅛ on Manufacturers Light & Heat on sales of less than 500 shares, and the decline of more than a dollar a share on National Fire Proofing common and preferred on light transactions.

Westinghouse Electric held fairly steady and was in demand at the decline. Air Brake was also steady at 131.

Rumors were current in Fourth avenue yesterday that another consolidation of important banking interests was under consideration, but no particulars were obtainable.

More than 141,000 shares of United States Steel preferred changed hands on the New York board yesterday. Of course monthly bought. The sales of the common approximated 58,000 shares. These two stocks furnished nearly 40 per cent of the total day's business.

About $700,000 currency was shipped from New York to interior points yesterday.

The gross earnings of Louisville & Nashville for the fourth week in October increased $105,000, and for the month increased $252,000.

The gross earnings of Southern Railway for the fourth week in October increased $125,000, and for the month increased $270,000.

The gross earnings of Missouri Pacific for the fourth week in October increased $117,000.

The gross earnings of Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for October were $726,208, an increase of $21,650.

The gross earnings of Canadian Pacific for October were $4,478,000, an increase of $250,000.

The gross earnings of Hocking Valley for October were $529,536, an increase of $22,206.

The gross earnings of Wabash for October were $2,206,295, an increase of $226,186.

The gross earnings of Wheeling & Lake Erie for October were $406,142, an increase of $32,173.

It is estimated that the earnings of United States Steel for the present quarter will be between $35,000,000 and $24,000,000. For the corresponding quarter last year they were $43,000,000, and for 1902 $20,000,000. The largest earnings for any one quarter were $37,662,000 (the second quarter of 1902). The smallest thus far were $25,000,000 (the first quarter of 1903).

The American Radiator directors have declared the regular quarterly dividend or 1¾ per cent on the preferred, payable November 14.

The progress of a scheme for a hard and fast combination of all the German iron and steel works into one comprehensive trust is being closely followed by American steel interests because of the probable effect upon our export trade. Through the organization of what is called the German Steel Works association, German steel producers hope to so finally intrench themselves that they will be able to meet the competition of the United States Steel Corporation hereafter in the open markets. The German steel trust is to embrace: 1. The entire home production of the steel works of Bessemer iron hearth, crucible or any other process. The entire home production of steel works of steel and puddled bars and rolled intermediate products. 3. The entire home production of ingots, billets, slabs, sheet bars, railroad rails, girder rails, fish plates, I beams, channels and Z-bars. 4 Entire home production of bars, wire rods, plates, sheets, axles, steels and tires, steel forgings and steel castings and steel rolls. Each member of the trust is to participate in the distribution to the different groups according to its capacities and needs. No combination so far-reaching has ever before been attempted in the steel and iron industry.

Twenty-four Chicago state banks in their reports of condition show deposits increased $2,985,427, loans and discounts increased $1,210,000, and cash reserves increased $4,402,588.

The Chicago Peoples' Gas directors have declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable November 25.

The quarterly dividend on West Chicago Street Railway of ¾ per cent will be paid November 16. This is a reduction of ¾ per cent.

It was noted that the Gould-Rockefeller stocks had very little support and this was construed as meaning that the Standard Oil interest is bearish on the situation. It was also stated that no prospect of a settlement of the Amalgamated Copper troubles is possible until the supreme court of Montana passes on the appeal from the recent decision.

THE OUTLOOK FOR STEEL VIEWED BY AN EXPERT

Edward Atkinson Thinks the Present Depression Is Only a Temporary Matter.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—In 1899, Mr. Atkinson, of Boston, in an elaborate forecast of the future of the iron and steel production of the world written for the Manufacturers' Record, outlined his views as to the probable production during the next 25 years. In a letter hereto published in this week's issue of the Manufacturers' Record, referring to his estimates of 1900 in connection with the present low prices of iron, Mr. Atkinson says:

"This depression in the price of iron is a temporary matter. My various prophecies each provided for a temporary set-back in each decade. In my last I anticipated a temporary depression in the present decade, such as has in fact come. But this temporary decline Mr. Atkinson does not count as of much importance, and, looking to the future, he says:

"In my last prophecy, on the basis of 40 per cent of pig iron as the world's product of 1895, I anticipated 60,000,000 tons for 1910, or at the furthest by 1915. That was based on a maximum consumption in this country of 400 pounds a head. It is already over 500 pounds. In 1910 60,000,000 tons will be entirely exceeded. Europe has reached its maximum.

"These facts, which in Mr. Atkinson's view suggest that the United States must by 1910 be able to provide an increase of 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 tons, which would necessitate the doubling of the present pig iron output of the United States, he thinks, the necessity of our beginning to make a thorough investigation as to every available ore supply in North America, whether in Canada, in the south or in Cuba. In this connection it is interesting to note that Alabama furnaces have again entered the foreign trade, and are now selling pig iron for immediate shipment to Europe.

Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Money 1½@2½ per cent. The rate of discount for short bills is 2¾ per cent and for three months' bills is 2 15-16@3 per cent; consols for money, 89 3-16 per cent; consols for account, 89 7-16 per cent. Money was abundant in the market today, but this was not regarded as a sign that the repayments due on the Bank of England and the payments of the London county bills on Saturday, and of the Transvaal loan on November 15, would be met fairly easily. There was a decline in the price of gold series consequent on the lighter rate of American exchange.

ASPINWALL FARM SOLD FOR $38,000

Robert C. Hall Secures 180 Acres Adjoining His Former Holdings.

A DEAL IN BARTLETT STREET

River and Railroad Terminal Company Completes Its South Side Site—Small Sales of Realty Are Increasing—Suburban Purchases Reported Yesterday.

Robert C. Hall has purchased from Attorney Bruce Millard 180 acres of the old Aspinwall property for $38,000. Mr. Millard bought the property last spring for about $35,000, and it was then rumored that the purchase was for Mr. Hall, but the story was never confirmed until yesterday, when the transfer was effected. The property is situated one-half mile northeast of Aspinwall village. A part of it runs down to the bluff, but the larger part of the farm is separated from the town by the holdings of the Aspinwall Land Company and farms which it lately has opticned. Adjoining the Aspinwall property is the Delamater farm of 40 acres, which the city condemned one year ago as the site for the filtration plant, paying for it about $40,000. Mr. Hall also owns another tract of the Aspinwall property adjoining his recent purchase, which gives him a fine property for a country home. A short distance in the rear of the farms a street has lately been made for a street car line to make a loop through the country from Sharpsville, thus opening up this territory for suburban home sites. Over 100 houses are now erected on the property formerly called the "bluff" on the north side of Aspinwall, and the improvements contemplated there next year will add considerably to the value of the country. The land was recently ceded to the Commonwealth Real Estate & Trust Co.

Harry M. Gross has sold another of his Squirrel Hill houses for $18,800, the buyer being a local broker. The deal was made by R. J. Palmer through Adams, Hemphill & Company. The property sold is at No. 3837 Bartlett street, between Shady and Murray avenues, and consists of a 12-room, center-hall brick house on lot 70x150 feet. The purchase was made for a home.

The buyer of the Mueller residence in Bartlett street, which was also sold through Adams, Hemphill & Company this week for $25,000, proves to be Marion C. Hinehart of the Pittsburgh White Metal Company, who secured the property for a home.

By getting title to the former James J. Francis property at the south corner of Bingham and Third streets, South side, the River Road Terminal Company has now possession of its entire site for the big system of warehouses which it will build. The property was bought some months ago by Frank E. Maloy, who sold it to the warehouse company for $20,500. It measures 72x100 feet and is improved with a number of brick buildings of little value.

Small Sales on the Increase.

Within the last few days there has been a noticeable increase in the number of small sales reported, the sort that show most clearly the state of the realty market. The buying of houses is on the increase, most of the sales announced ranging in size from $2,000 to $10,000. Small business properties are also in good demand, and in the Hill district many are being bought and improved with a view to increasing the revenue. From all parts of the city the inquiry for small and medium sized properties is increasing, the number of persons on the lookout for desirable homes with their means is larger this year than ever before, owing to the still increase in rents last spring and the probable raise next April.

If mortgage money were as free as one year ago more properties of this sort would be sold than at that time, although the inquiry for large properties is somewhat less. One great drawback to home buying just now is that contractors and speculative builders cannot get their houses finished, the plumbers' strike having delayed them for more than a month. Any man who buys a house at this season of the year wants to move into it at once and not pay rent for another and have his money tied up until spring. Dozens of the finest houses the city would have been ready for occupancy by Thanksgiving or before have been held back until they cannot be sold to good advantage until spring.

A. H. Clarke proves to have been the broker in the sale of the McKnights property in Fountain street yesterday. Mr. Clark was formerly with James H. Thompson, but is now in business for himself at No. 316 Fourth avenue.

John L. Lane has sold to James E. McDowell three properties in the Twenty-third ward for $16,000. They are a lot 87x110 feet on the south east corner of Wintenburn and Conner streets, a lot 250x247 feet in Lydia street, and a third lot 29x137 feet in the same street.

Thornburg: The Real Estate Trust Company has sold for Mrs. Pemberton and Company to C. N. Frohl a lot 100x125 feet on the west side of Cornell avenue near Hamilton avenue, Thornburg, for $2,400. The lot adjoins the residence of Mr. Frohl, who lives and will be improved with a $10,000 house.

Allegheny: J. Walter Hay sold to Charles H. Looper a 10-room house in Montrose avenue, University Park, Allegheny, for $3,100.

East Pittsburgh: J. Z. Levy sold for B. I. Levy of East Pittsburgh to H. D. Keiler of Wilkinsburg a four-room frame house, lot 19x100 feet, in Ampere street, East Pittsburgh, for $1,500.

Scattering Realty Purchases.

Smallman street: W. A. Hutchinson sold to a McKeesport investor No. 5404 Smallman street, a brick and frame house on lot 20x100 feet, for $4,000.

Oakland: Harry B. Kirk sold to Edward S. Allen an improved lot, 25x100 feet, on the west side of Oakland avenue, near Forbes street, Fourteenth ward, for $8,000.

South Side: Louisa Lassebier estate sold to Adolphe P. Stock an improved lot, 24x63 feet, in South Fifteenth street, Twenty-eighth ward, for $3,500.

Frankstown avenue: Albert M. Sorg sold to Flavius Dougherty a lot 56x181 feet on the south side of Frankstown avenue, near Mohler street, Thirty-seventh ward, for $2,450.

Wightman street: Albert M. Sorg sold to William H. Herring a lot 48x150 feet on the east side of Wightman street, near Wilkins avenue, Twenty-second ward, for $3,800.

Myrtle avenue: Otis A. Lane sold to Elijah Brown a lot 20x100 feet on the west side of Myrtle avenue, Thirty-eighth ward, for $2,025.

Sylvania street: Charles Ott sold to William H. Kennedy an improved lot, 26x102 feet, on the south side of Sylvania street, Thirty-eighth ward, for $2,800.

There were 17 building permits issued yesterday, all but three being for structures and repairs. The three were for small one-story frame buildings and the estimated cost of all was $7,850.

HAY RECEIPTS FAIR AND PRICES STEADY

Florida Oranges Now Here. Southern Vegetables Attract Very Little Attention.

With receipts only fair the hay market remained steady yesterday, No. 1 timothy not yet showing any preponderance in arrivals over demand. Early in the year it was expected that with the wet weather which came late for the hay crop, there would be but a light yield. Afterward, when it was found that the grass was not damaged, it was thought there would be enormous supplies of hay. It has now settled down to a condition where there is apparently plenty to take care of the needs of consumers, all grades considered, but there is not an immense supply of best grade, and will not probably be more than enough. Rye straw is coming in short lengths, prices fluctuating sharply, with receipts light. Straw of this kind is wanted and dealers are seeking for stock with which to take care of their trade. Grades of all kinds remain unchanged in price, with oats just about steady, shelled corn firm and car corn easy. Millfeed is holding its own as quoted.

Florida oranges commenced to appear in the market and are quoted at $3 50 to $4 a crate. Jamaicas have been here for some time and have sold largely for Floridas, but the genuine fruit of the latter state has only been arriving for a short time. Other tropical fruits are steady as quoted, with the market quiet and no special demand for any line. In domestic fruits grapes are selling fairly well, with the high quotations well maintained, while apples are steady, but are not moving rapidly. Pears have come call and the request for cranberries is growing.

The only change made in produce prices was a decline in cabbage by the ton, which is not moving very rapidly. A small consignment of egg plant reached here from the south, but it was from one of a trial shipment than a beginning of regular consignments, and no more has come in since. Green beans from the south are also coming in, but are not selling very freely. It has not been long enough since the market ceased to be supplied with home grown vegetables from the nearby farms to cause consumers to feel their loss, and buyers are willing to turn their attention for a time to rough stock, as winter vegetables are designated, before coming back to shipped stock at high prices. Turnips, cabbage and parsnips have crowded celery off at present. Hothouse lettuce is offered by home growers at 75 cents a dozen.

Groceries are unchanged. Refiners say the sugar situation is very dim, with difference between cost of raw and selling price of refined down to the smallest margin known for years. Demand is better this month than during October, but is not equaling the call for sugar heavy, while confectioners are not buying freely for holiday supplies. Flour is locally unchanged, with supplies still limited. Some of the mills have reduced prices 10 cents a barrel, but the reduction has not yet reached here, stocks in the hands of jobbers being so low as to make quotable changes not yet necessary.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts bulletined: Pennsylvania lines, 30 cars hay, 2 cars straw, 1 cars oats, 2 cars corn, 2 cars oats and corn, 2 cars feed; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 2 cars hay, 1 car oats; Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 8 cars hay, 2 cars corn; total receipts, 60 cars.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

The October ore and bullion statements at Salt Lake amounted to $2,125,386, the largest on record.

The Majestic copper smelter at Milford, Utah, is again in operation.

The Clyde Mining Co. has been launched at Salt Lake with a $500,000 capital.

The October dividends of Utah mines were as follows:

Century	$ 1,500
Daly West	15,000
Sacramento	5,000
Silver King	100,000
Utah (Fish Springs)	1,000
Total	$224,500

Reports from the Thunder mountain region, Idaho, indicate steady improvement in its condition during the season, and while the actual production of gold from the mountain proper has been confined to the Dewey mill, conditions at this time justify the expectation that to it will be added at least two plants by 1904. During the season on which light snows are now falling every proposition has been under steady development, while it is said that on the Sunnyside group alone 2,200 feet of development has been done on ore that shows a mill margin. Equally as active have been the companies owning the Fairview and Belle of Thunder. Coupled with the opening up of those portions of the gold-bearing belt will be a number of others have accomplished most gratifying results.

Electric power generated at the falls of the Spokane river will be used to operate the Tiger-Poorman mill at Burke, Idaho, next week. The power will be turned on Sunday, when the mill machinery will be connected with the power plant's transmission line of the Washington Water Power Company.

The tonnage shipped from the Cripple Creek district during October was 35,050 tons of a gross value of $664,600. Of the tonnage about 31,000 was treated by the cyanide and chlorination plants. The following is the record of each:

Plant.	Tonnage.	Gross Value.
U. S. P. & R. Co.	12,000	$300,000
Portland	9,300	288,700
Dorcas	2,000	60,000
Telluride	2,000	55,000
Economic	1,500	37,500
Globe	2,000	16,400
Smaller plants	1,250	6,000
Smelters	3,500	210,000
Totals	35,050	$864,000

ANOTHER DAY OF DECLINES IN CHICAGO MARKET

General Liquidation of December Wheat Was the Feature. Corn and Oats Lower.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—There was a renewal of the selling pressure to December wheat which has characterized trading for this past few days at the start, and during the opening hour that delivery declined to a point below what May was selling at. News was again decidedly bearish, receipts large and weather fair to favorable, and many traders seemed inclined to dispose of their holdings. St. Louis reports sold freely early in the day, but there seemed good demand for May throughout the entire session and that month was comparatively firm and acted to support the nearby option. Fourth Ohio car report was somewhat bullish and brought out a fair buying order from local traders and shorts toward the noon hour, and a reaction set in which resulted in a recovery nearly equal to the decline. Primary receipts were 1,424,100 bushels, against 1,431,900 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Chicago and Duluth reported receipts of 1,175 cars, against 1,000 cars last week and 961 cars a year ago.

Commission reports from reliable sources continued to come out regarding the poor condition of the corn crop, and, with general commission house demand, caused the market to show strength. Buying by provision interests was a feature in trading. Selling was of light volume and principally by small traders. The Ohio report, giving a loss in condition of 14 points compared with last week, was one of the chief bull factors, although firm cables helped in the upturn. Local receipts were 295 cars, with 24 of contract grade.

Oats ruled firm in sympathy with strength in corn. Local shorts covered freely and there was fair buying by commission houses, but offerings were rather light. Local receipts were 147 cars.

Lard was the strong item in the provision market and showed a fair advance on a good demand from exports, but other products were easier. Smaller receipts of hogs and a fair advance of from 5 to 10c in prices at the yards was a strengthening influence. January pork closed at $14 12½, against $14 17½. Lard's early was up 10c at $8 20, while ribs were 5c higher at $7 25.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 165 cars; corn, 280 cars; oats, 150 cars; hogs, 12,000 head.

NO STEEL RAILS UNDER $28 A TON

Members of Pool Hold Meeting in New York and Reach Decision.

BILLETS REDUCED $4 A TON

This Action, It Is Believed, Will Clear the Situation, and Induce Those Who Have Been Holding Orders Out to Place Them Without Further Delay.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A secret session of the steel rail pool was held today. The paramount question up for consideration was whether the pool shall accede to the demands of the railroads and cut the price of steel rails from $28 per ton to $26 per ton, or whether the present schedule in force for two years shall be maintained.

The railroad demand for reduction of steel rail prices was based on the fact that the general depression in trade justifies lower prices for rails. Members of the steel rail pool, includes among others the steel corporation, Cambria, Pennsylvania, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Jones & Laughlin and Lackawanna Steel. An understanding was made after the meeting that the price of steel billets had been cut $4 a ton by the steel corporation. At the same time it was stated that there would be no change in the price of steel rails.

The action of the corporation, it is believed, will clear the situation in the trade. For months buyers have been holding off because they believed prices would go lower. It was believed in many quarters that the schedule had not been maintained with the result that the trade was in a most uncertain condition.

Veryl Preston Retires.

The matter of introducing economies in the management of the steel trust is receiving attention. The resignation of Veryl Preston, third vice president of the steel corporation, is to be followed by other changes in the executive force, all in the interest of economy.

Between Vice President Preston, who has practical charge of the distribution of finished products, and other officials, there has been friction. This, added to the fact that under the new plan of conducting all the foreign export business through the Export Products Company, took away much of Mr. Preston's work and led to his retirement. Comptroller Filbert, who was selected to succeed Mr. Preston, will combine the work done by Mr. Preston with his department.

The other impending changes are said to include several officials heretofore prominent in the executive management of the corporation. Changes in the Pacific coast department of the steel corporation, far-reaching in extent have already been made.

Another step in the way of economical operation, it is said, will be shortly taken by the consolidation of the American Tin Plate Company and the American Sheet Steel Company. This has been under consideration for some time. Other mergers of subsidiary companies are also being discussed, but nothing definite has as yet been decided.

Removing to Pittsburgh.

It is also stated that many, if not all the offices of the various subsidiary companies will be removed to the Pittsburgh district and in some cases some of these offices will be merged or consolidated. The headquarters of the corporation, however, will still remain at its present location.

Unofficial estimates of the unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel Corporation place the total at 3,500,000 tons, which is a decrease of 228,740 tons during the month of October, and about 1,450,000 tons below the corresponding period last year. This unusually poor showing, it is explained by officials, is due entirely to depression in iron and steel circles and the stock market, which has caused railroad companies and other big consumers to withhold orders.

Representatives of the corporation state that one potent reason for the falling off in orders is the quiet but determined efforts of railroads to force the price of rails below $28 per ton.

Another reason advanced is the prolonged lull in the building trade, which cut down the structural iron output.

Although the steel corporation is working successfully to broaden its export trade, the profits on such transactions are exceedingly small because of the sharp competition of Germany in all the world.

Profits Are Small.

It is said that on its latest contract for steel with big interests in England, its profits will be less than $4 per ton. The business is considered important, however, because of its influence at home and abroad and the stiffening effect a good export trade will have upon the schedule of prices for finished products.

The plan to effect greater economy of transportation is receiving the attention of Chairman E. H. Gary, H. C. Frick and George W. Perkins.

MUST BE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES

Naturalization Is Requisite to Membership in American Federation of Musicians.

J. N. Weber, national president of the American Federation of Musicians, which is one of the best organized unions in the United States, arrived in this city yesterday on his way to Boston to attend the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, with which the musicians are affiliated. Yesterday morning he made an address to the local members and last evening he attended the regular meeting of the Iron City Central Trades council, which is the A. F. of L. branch. Regarding his organization President Weber said:

"One of the principal laws of the union is that every member shall be an American citizen. If a musician comes to this country, he must immediately get out his first naturalization papers. He then must live in the country one year before he can become a member of the organization, and when he has lived in the country long enough to get out his second papers, he must do so or leave the union.

"There are 501 locals of musicians in the United States, in as many cities or large towns. We have a total membership of over 40,000. The Pittsburgh local has over 800 members, the majority of whom have joined during the past few months."

It was this organization that badly interfered with the Chicago Centennial parade held recently. The trouble was over the employment of the Marine band. The members of the Marine band being employed by the government does not have to be organized, nor can the organized musicians interfere with them. The musical organization claims that when a Marine bandsmen plays for the government only, they are permitted to stay out of the organization, when they are open for engagements and accept dates for public events, they should be organized. With the Marine band accepting a date to play for the centennial and the members refusing to join the association, President Weber ordered that no member of the organization accept engagements for the centennial. The result was that only the Marine band headed the parade of 10,000 people. The headquarters of the Pittsburgh musicians is on the third flood of the building at No. 416 Wood street. It is engaged by the Pittsburgh Musical society (Local No. 60, American Federation of Musicians, for members, and between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning is the popular hour for gathering there.

A Good Investment.

There is nothing so self-satisfying these uncertain days as the possession of an account with an old established banking house like the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, Smithfield street, opposite postoffice—an institution that has successfully weathered every financial storm since its organization and standing as it does today, a monument to nearly half a century's conservative and successful banking methods. If you have money to safely and profitably invest you should write this bank for a copy of booklet No. 20 on up-to-date banking.

KILLING OF REDS NOT JUSTIFIABLE

Brennen of Pine Ridge Agency Pleads Cause of the Indians.

THEIR LIVES THREATENED

Secretary of Interior Asks Governor of Wyoming to See That Prisoners Are Protected in Their Rights and Receives Curt Reply to His Telegram.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The commissioner of Indian affairs today received the following telegram concerning the Indian situation from Agent Brennen of the Pine Ridge agency dated Hot Springs, S. D.:

A sheriff and posse from Wyoming arrested nine Indians and their families near Edgemont, S. D., last night. They are supposed to be part of the party engaged in fight Saturday; tried to have them released pending investigation; officers insist on taking them to Douglass, Wyo., for hearing. Mob violence threatened. The governor should be telegraphed at once to use all means to protect the Indians now under arrest. The United States attorney should be ordered to Douglass to see justice is done the Indians under arrest. In my opinion the killing of the six Indians reported was totally unjustified.

In accordance with this recommendation the secretary of the interior sent the following telegram to Governor Chatterton:

Have reports that sheriff and posse from Wyoming on third instant arrested nine Indians and their families near Edgemont, South Dakota, who are supposed to be of party engaged in fight on Saturday last; that officers insisted in taking them to Douglass, Wyoming for hearing; mob violence threatened. In view of public excitement and evident hostility of whites, respectfully urge that you take all necessary means at your command to protect lives and persons of Indians, an act of simple justice to them.

Secretary Hitchcock also has made a formal request of the attorney general for legal protection for the Indians under arrest so far as he is able to grant it. The secretary expresses the opinion that as the Indians are wards of the nation they should be protected in their legal rights by the government.

Tonight Secretary Hitchcock received the following dispatch from Governor Chatterton of Wyoming in answer to the request of the secretary that the Indians arrested be protected:

Have just been in communication with the sheriff at Douglass. There is no such violence threatened. There was no hostility on the part of the whites. The sheriff demanded the surrender of the Indians. Indians opened fire, killing sheriff and deputy. I assure you that the state will take every precaution to protect Indians. We simply desire they be tried as any white man charged with crime. I shall personally use every endeavor to see that they have a fair trial.

E. CHATTERTON.

The dispatches have been referred by Secretary Hitchcock to the department of justice with the request that such steps as are necessary be taken for the protection of the Indians.

HOBBY HORSE SAVES HOME FROM BURGLARS

While the burglars were ransacking the lower floor, one of them fell over the hobby horse in the dark and aroused the family. The burglars escaped. The home of John Moruz in Washington avenue, Braddock, was robbed of $200 worth of clothing and furs yesterday.
